BOSTON MAN IN ESTRADA FORCES TAKEN AS REBEL

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, June 4.—William P. Pittham, the Boston man, who laid the mines at Bluefields for the insurgents, was captured by the government troops and will be tried by court-martial. This was made known to-day, following the receipt by the government of the details of the capture of Bluefields Bluff by the forces under President Madriz.

The troops passed to the assault over five mines, only one of which was exploded. Pittsham was wounded and captured, it is said, as he was engaged in operating the mechanism through which the hidden engines of destruction were released.

The Madriz army has been crushingly defeated in its last stand by General Mena, insurgent commander at Rama, according to advices received here to-day. General Chavarria, commander of the regular forces at Rama, has been captured and the remnants of his column are fleeing after the scattered Madriz forces that attacked Bluefields.

It is reported that more than 100 were killed and 400 wounded.

The defeat of the Madriz army at Bluefields directly resulted in the Rama insurgent victory. General Chamorro, commander of the ill-fated Managua expedition, being detailed to succor Mena with 400 men from Bluefields. On the arrival of reinforcements the Rama chief demanded the surrender of Chavarria within twelve hours. The latter replied with an attack on a hill commanding Rama.

In the three-hour battle that followed the fighting was furious, ending in the flight of the regulars.

FLAMES WIPE OUT HALL AT CLIFTONDALE

LYNN, June 4.—Odd Fellows' Hall, on Lincoln avenue, Cliftondale, was totally destroyed by fire early to-day. Only the walls are standing. The fire is supposed to have started from a smouldering cigar left after the smoke-talk held by the local lodge last night. The damage is estimated at $10,000. Engineer Charles Putney of the Saugus Hose Company was struck on the head by a falling beam and was taken home. He will recover.

The hall was a two and one-half story wooden building. On the ground floor were the real estate office of Bryer & McIver and the barber shop of Antonio Dominick, which were gutted. Much valuable paraphernalia in the lodge room was destroyed.

IRONS ON GIRL STIRS MAINE TOWN

SANFORD, Me., June 4.—Residents of this town were startled to witness a fourteen-year-old girl being led through the main street of the village handcuffed to a six-foot 200-pound policeman.

Officer Bennett arrested Winnie Kerr on complaint of the parents of the girl, Mr. and Mrs. George Kerr.

Officer Bennett explained his reason for handcuffing her by saying that it was the rule. She was later sentenced to the industrial school at Hallowell during her minority.

WOMAN FREED OF KILLING IS RE-ARRESTED

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Mrs. Dora Elizabeth Doxey, who was acquitted last night on the charge of slaying William J. Erder, was rearrested to-day at the Moser Hotel by Constable George Bode, charged with bigamy. She was placed in jail.

Bode went to Columbus, Nebraska, last December to bring Mrs. Doxey to Missouri on a charge of bigamy, but Mrs. Doxey consented to return.

Mrs. Doxey's arrest on the bigamy charge checkmates the State prosecutor of St. Louis, who was prepared to issue an information against her to-day charging perjury and obtaining money false pretences.

The woman fell sobbing into her father's arms when the jury's verdict was read. A crowd of 500 arose shouting, while deputy sheriffs rapped violently for order. Half carried in the arms of her father and ex-Lieutenant-Governor Charles P. Johnson, her counsel, Mrs. Doxey shook the hands of the jurors.

"I can only say I am happy," Mrs. Doxey said. "I will never take any more morphine and I will never live with Dr. Doxey again."

When informed of his wife's acquittal, Dr. Loren B. Doxey jumped up from his bunk in jail, saying, "Well, I'm glad to hear that." He expressed regret that she did not come back to the jail to talk to him.

PLAYED INDIAN, KILLED CHUM

WINCHESTER, June 4.—John F. Hall, the sixteen-year-old son of John A. Hall, of No. 4 Holton street, died from being hit on the head by a stone thrown by his chum, Arthur Marchand, while the two were playing Indian on Winchester Ledge.

Young Hall got behind a tree in true Indian fashion, and the Marchand boy let drive several stones, one striking the other lad as he looked forth from his place of refuge.

CAT ADOPTS THREE BABY SQUIRRELS

WESTFIELD, June 4.—"Malty," a Maltese cat, owned by Miss Leah Parks of Russell, has adopted a family of three baby red squirrels. The squirrels were found in the trunk of a tree which had been felled, and were turned over to "Malty," whose kittens had died. She tenderly cares for her new charges, and seems to be perfectly happy with them.

CHINESE REVOLT IS SPREADING

SHANGHAI, June 4.—Native riots were to-day reported in the country west of Nankin. The flight of foreigners from that city has already begun. An uprising is imminent, according to advices received here to-day. The situation is more serious than at any time since the Boxer uprising. The railroad between here and Nankin is reported to have been attacked near Kin-Than. Unrest is spreading throughout Kiang Su province where the food shortage is inflicting hardship on millions of restless natives.

Late advices say that the natives are planning an organized attack for to-morrow, the date of the opening of the Nankin Exposition. The natives have already assumed an insulting attitude toward foreigners in the city and the walls of the American consulate have been defiled. Wealthy merchants are fleeing the city.

Ready to Land Troops.

The American fighting ship, the New Orleans, with the German, English and Japanese warships which are in the harbor are prepared to land troops at the first sign of the threatened outbreak. There are several American missions at Nankin.

The diplomats here predict an outbreak in the provinces south of the Yangtse-Kiang River but do not think it will reach this city. Late advices say that the authorities at Nankin have taken away all ammunition from the soldiers.

The uprising is a result of the anti-dynastic feeling which has smouldered for years. For some time the leaders of the anti-dynastic party have planned a revolution for June 5. Warnings were isued to foreign consuls at Nankin and Pekin announcing that the day had been set for the opening of hostilities.

Bury Their Money.

Neutrals were warned not to interfere with military preparations. These warnings were signed by "the Revolutionary Board of War" and promised protection to foreigners who heeded its directions. The promise of the protection is, however, giving foreigners at Nankin little confidence. The attitude of the natives for the last few days indicates what may be expected when hostilities are openly begun. Already wealthy business men are burying their wealth in the country districts.

The American missions at Nankin are The American Friends Board of Foreign Missions, the Foreign Christian Missionary Society, the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian churches, the Foreign Department of the International committee of the Y. M. C. A. and the American Advent Christian Mission.

Barefoot Dancers in Public Garden To-day

40 GIRLS DANCE IN BAREFEET IN PUBLIC GARDEN

For the first time in all the hundreds of years of Boston history, the strange spectacle of forty young girls in white gowns and bare feet dancing on the grass at the Public Garden presented itself to the gaze of hundreds of onlookers to-day.

The air was a bit cold and the grass a trifle damp and dewy, but the girls went through their dances with apparent joyfulness in quite the old Greek manner.

The unique spectacle to-day was devised by Miss Lilla Viles Wyman, the dancing teacher, and a permit was obtained from the city granting the use of the Public Garden for the dance. The little girls looked like a group of small Isadora Duncans or Loie Fullers.

The dance is called a "Spring Idyll." Thirty young girls, whose ages ranged from four to fifteen years, and one small boy took part.

The girls were barefoot and dressed in flowing robes that showed all the colors of the rainbow. For half an hour they danced through intricate mazes of motion to the sound of Pandean pipes. It needed only a satyr or two peeping from behind the trees that formed the background of the setting, or Pan himself piping on the lawn, to complete the realism of the scene. The sky was blue, the sun shone brightly, and the children entered heartily into the spirit of the dance. They were warmly applauded by a large crowd of spectators attracted by the novelty of the spectacle.

This is the same dance that was given several weeks ago at Mrs. Butler's May festival in Mechanics building. This was its first performance here in the open air. According to Miss Wyman, it is being revived in these days as one of the best models to teach children the grace and poetry of motion.

Among those who took part were Flora Merrill, Grace Covage, Stella Best, Margaret McDonough, Irene Aronson, Avril Neven, Caroline Brine, Josephine Clark, Marion Roper, Helen Mackin, Irene Meserve, Frances McDonnell, Mollie McCormack, Lucretia Craig, Pauline Mason, Sarah Myers, Clarice Weiscopf, Grace Mackinnon and Joseph Knox.

AIRSHIP FLIES OVER LONDON AND ST. PAUL'S

LONDON, June 4.—A war airship early to-day flew over the heart of London and circled the dome of St. Paul's. It was the British army dirigible Beta, which left Farnborough at 11:30 p. m. and returned there at 3:30 a. m., having covered 110 miles in four hours, an average of 27½ miles an hour.

The German war scare was revived in the wee small hours when the dirigible floated over the city. It was seen by hundreds, despite the hour, and the police and newspaper offices received scores of warnings that Germans were about to blow up the city.

An interesting phase of the event is the fact that the start at Farnborough, thirty miles southwest of London, was made from near the tombs of Napoleon III. and the Prince Imperial Louis, who lie at Farnborough Hill. The trip was made unannounced.

The army aviators to-day declared that the dirigible was under control at every moment of the trip and swept about the cathedral gracefully in precisely the manner planned. The trip is hailed as the best flight ever made by a British dirigible.

KING GEORGE NOW A FIELD MARSHAL

LONDON, June 4.—King George to-day assumed the rank of field marshal. A reception at Marlboro house followed the ceremony. Lord Kitchener presented the baton to Lord Roberts, who, with a short speech to which the King replied, handed it to the new ruler.

1,000 PASSENGERS ABOARD VESSEL; RESCUE RUSHED

Danish-American Liner Wrecked on Norwegian Coast and Passengers Are In Grave Peril—Wireless Summons Help.

COPENHAGEN, June 4.—The big Danish-American liner United States, with 1,000 passengers aboard, struck on the rocks in Christiansand Fjord, Norway, early to-day. There was a panic among the passengers when the big ship hit, but it was quieted by the officers and crew.

Treacherous currents swept the big ship from her course as she was creeping cautiously through the narrow passes of the Fjord. With a crash she struck up on the jagged rocks. The shock awakened every one of the thousand sleeping passengers.

People rushed, half-clad, upon the decks and for a time panic reigned. The heroism of the crew of the United States only prevented mad stampedes by the terror-stricken passengers. After a time the passengers were somewhat re-assured.

The pumps were set at work and distress signals sent out calling for assistance. Christiansand wireless operators sent the message in every direction.

Steamers far out at sea heard the call and tugs and steamers hastened to the relief of the big liner, which is hard ashore and in a dangerous position. The constant changing of the strong currents in the fjord threaten to sweep the United States and her thousand passengers into deep water, where the vessel could not float.

While assistance was being rushed to the relief of the steamship, special services were being held in the Cathedral at Christiansand. Prayers were offered for the safety of the passengers and crew of the threatened steamer.

Water Rushing In.

The moment the vessel struck Captain Wulff sent part of his crew among the panic-stricken passengers to reassure them. He began an investigation to determine the extent of his vessel's injuries. He ordered the pump to work with top speed, as the water was rushing through great rents into the hold.

Crowds lined the cliffs of the rocky shore to watch the work of rescue and the efforts to save the ship by the flotilla of craft dispatched to her aid the moment her plight became known.

This is the second time in three months the United States has been aground. On March 12, while bound for America she struck the rocks near Christiansand, but sustained little damage. At that time all of her passengers were quickly taken off her.

Swept by Currents.

The place where the United States struck is the most dangerous in Christiansand Fjord. There the currents sweep with tremendous force in counter directions, and to-day it was one of those which swept her from her course to the rocks.

Whether the vessel can be kept afloat even if the tugs manage to get her clear of the rocks is not known yet. How badly she is injured the captain and his crew have not discovered.

MOST OF PASSENGERS RETURNING PILGRIMS FROM FATHERLAND

NEW YORK, June 4.—Officials of the Scandinavian line said to-day that the United States left Copenhagen with a heavy passenger list. Late yesterday she cleared from Christiansand for New York, they said. The majority of her passengers are Americans who have been visiting in the Fatherland. The liner, according to the local officials, carries about 225 officers and men in the crew. Her chief officer is L. Holst, and her chief engineer Christian Hansen.

The recent collision between the steamer Monterey and the liner United States was one of the worst affairs of the kind near New York in a decade. Both vessels were out-bound. The Scandinavian liner, the swifter, was ahead, the Monterey following a short distance behind. The United States left her course, according to the Monterey's officers, and the latter smashed into her, ripping open a great gash in her side. Four hundred steerage passengers on the United States were thrown into a panic, and the disorder was quelled with difficulty.

With her bow doubled back, her port railing twisted and one anchor wrenched off the Monterey crept back to her pier while the United States drifted till she grounded. A hole had been cut into her through to the engine compartment. The excitement of the passengers on the passengers on the United States was increased by the fact that a schooner, the Malcolm Baxter, Jr., while jockeying to avoid the liners, ran ashore on the same bank which the United States ran upon.

BODY OF RINDGE STUDENT FOUND

The body of eighteen-year old Charles J. Corr of Cambridge, captain of the crew of Rindge Manual Training School, who was drowned while swimming in the Concord River at Billerica yesterday, was recovered early to-day. After it was viewed by the medical examiner it was taken to the home of the young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Corr on Maynard place, Mount Auburn district.

Corr was to have been graduated from Rindge within a fortnight. He stood well in his studies and in athletics. He was tackle on the 1909-10 football team and was elected captain of the crew this Spring.

With other Rindge schoolboys Corr went yesterday to a Summer camp at Billerica. At 6 o'clock he was swimming with companions, using a boat for a diving platform. Corr was holding onto the stern of the boat. He went under. His companions thought he had dived to swim under water. When he failed to appear search was made for his body in vain. It was not till to-day that the body was located in the mud at the river bottom.

ROOSEVELT, JR., WEDS JUNE 20

NEW YORK, June 4.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander to-day obtained a marriage license. With the issuing of the document it became known that their marriage, originally set for June 18, has been postponed to June 20. It is believed that this was done to make sure of the attendance of the bridegroom's father and other members of the family now in Europe. They are due in New York on June 16.

GIRL GRADUATES PAY HONOR TO MRS. HOWE

WELLESLEY, June 4.—Surrounded by a bevy of pretty young women gowned in their flimsy Summer frocks, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the distinguished authoress and reformer, was the centre of attraction at the annual "Tree Day" celebration of the Wellesley College students. The venerable lady was the guest of honor and presented a striking picture as she laughed and chatted with those about her throughout the entire performance.

The celebration was one of the most spectacular events ever given by the students of the college. The entire student body turned out in costumes of the Elizabethan period.

Elaborately gowned in a robe of purple and white, representing the spirit of Elizabethan times, Miss Gertrude Carter of Boston, voted the prettiest girl in the senior class, headed the brilliant pageant past the applauding spectators.

Then the Virgin Queen, impersonated by Isador Douglas, followed by the senior class, who appeared as lords and ladies of the court, stepped into the picture. More lords and ladies were represented by the junior class, after which came the sophomores, representing the middle class of the period. Last of all came the "freshies," who were just peasants and for the most part boys and girls.

There was lots beside the pageant. There was freshman dancing on the green with Belle Mates '10 as herald. Esther Randal, president of the senior class, made a speech of welcome; Emma Howbridge was the senior orator. In the ceremony of the Spade Ann Hathaway '10 gave and Ruth Van Blarcom '13 received. Helen Logan was the freshman orator, and Ellen Wells was the mistress of ceremonies.

The senior dance, especially attractive, was based on Ben Jonson's "Masque of Chloridia." There was some fine solo dancing.

INCENDIARIES WIPE OUT KENTUCKY TOWN

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 4.—A dispatch received to-day says that Hyden, a town of a few hundred inhabitants in Leslie County, was burned by incendiaries last night. The damage is estimated at $75,000. Bloodhounds were to-day taken from here and put on the trail of the firebugs. A month ago Hyden Academy was destroyed, presumably by incendiaries.

How to Clean Children's Heads

A child's hair catches the dust, dirt and disease germs that float in the air. This causes dandruff and scalp diseases. Birt's Head Wash is the best thing to cleanse the child's hair with. It is the one preparation that absolutely removes all dirt, dust and disease germs. It cleans the scalp and makes the hair silky and lustrous. Birt's Head Wash can be used on children with absolute safety, as there is nothing harmful or secret about it. The formula is as follows: Refined Soap, Cochin Cocoanut Oil, Glycerin, White of Eggs and Salicylic Acid. Every doctor knows there is nothing better than these things for washing the hair and head. SEES WIRELESS AIRSHIPS TO AID NAVAL SCOUTS

NEW YORK, June 4.—"Before five years have passed we will not only have passenger and express mail air craft, but the aerial scouts of the navy of the future will be equipped with wireless just as their heavier engined and surfaced fellow craft will carry their deadly nitroglycerine batteries."

This was the prediction made to-day by Charles K. Hamilton. Hamilton has been working on the wireless biplane idea and it is intimated that he is nearing success.

"Before I start in the New York-St. Louis race for the $30,000 prize, I hope to have got a working model of wireless-equipped plane," he said.

At Hempstead Plains to-day he busied himself fitting a passenger seat to his aeroplane in order that he might gratify the wish of his mother, Mrs. N. H. Beaudette, and take her aloft in one of his dare-devil flights.

"I would not have the least fear in going up with Charley," she said to-day. "I have full confidence in him. He has been studying aviation for years. In fact, ever since he first read 'Darius Green' when a schoolboy Charley has been studying the new science constantly."

Among the entries for the New York-St. Louis race are Joe Seymour, noted as a chauffeur; Hamilton, J. C. Mars, Captain Thomas S. Baldwin, Glenn Curtiss and the Wright brothers' entry. Seymour has also signified his intention of taking part in the New York-Chicago $25,000 race.

HATHAWAY KENT, 85, OF CHELSEA, EXPIRES

Hathaway Kent, eighty-five years old, one of Chelsea's oldest citizens, died early to-day at the home of his son, Chester Kent, No. 58 Heard street, Chelsea. Born in 1825 in Newburyport, he came to Chelsea when ten years old. He opened a plumbing establishment in Chelsea square which business he retained for nearly three-quarters of a century. Mr. Kent spent all his spare moments in reading law. It was his boast that he never read a bit of fiction in all his life.

Metropolitan Opera Rewarded by Paris.

PARIS—The Metropolitan Opera Company has proved that its Paris venture is not a failure. "The first seven performances have brought in $11,000 at each performance, not including the ten per cent. paid to the government tax for the poor," says Gatti-Casazza. "We expected to lose $20,000 on the Paris season, instead of gaining that much." There is joy in the house, for Charles Gilbert, the baritone who sang last year for Hammerstein, has been signed on for the Metropolitan. Paris crowded the Chatelet Theatre to witness a brilliant performance of "Falstaff" and to hear for the first time in Paris Signor Scotti in the title role. The audience included all the regular boxholders, among them being Ambassador and Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mrs. Merritt, Mrs. Follansbee and Miss Rutherford. The rival composers, Puccini and Leoncavallo, applauded Verdi's masterpiece.

$68,250 for "Birdnesters."

LONDON—Corot's "The Birdnesters" was sold at Christie's for $68,250. This is a double record, a record price for a Corot and a record amount amount for any single picture sold at Christie's. It was bought by the Knoedler company and probably will go to the United States. Another high-priced picture, also bought by the Knoedler company, was "The Pancake," by Josef Israels. Matthew Maris's "L'Enfant Couchee," which was exhibited at the Guildhall in 1903 and which is 13½ by 20½ inches, brought $25,725.

Husband Won by a Hat.

PARIS—Some time ago Liane de Pougy, escorted by the Russian Prince Chika, attracted immense attention owing to her extraordinary bonnet. On that occasion a loud, rude remark was followed by a pugilistic encounter, in which the Prince was worsted. Mlle. de Pougy, touched by the Prince's chivalry, has consented to marry him.

Mafia Leaders Punished.

The principals were each sentenced to penal servitude for life in the sulphur mines. The others were condemned to solitary confinement for from six to eight years.

ROOSEVELT ABHORS "SENTIMENTALITY"

I regard sentiment as the exact antithesis of sentimentality and to substitute sentiment for sentimentality in my speech would directly invert my meaning. I abhor sentimentality and, on the other hand, think no man worth his salt who isn't profoundly influenced by sentiment and who does not shape his life in accordance with a high ideal. —Ex-President Roosevelt in letter to London Times correspondent, who wanted Colonel Roosevelt to substitute word "sentiment" for "sentimentality," which he used in his speech attacking British rule in Egypt.

OLD RATES OR NONE FIAT OF TETRAZZINI

Madame Luisa Tetrazzini is out after the high notes! There's a strike on among the stellar songbirds of opera, whose voices were golden lined under the late regime of Oscar Hammerstein. Tetrazzini, one of the best known of the Hammerstein stars, is the strike leader. Madame, the high note soprano, wants the erstwhile high notes—salary notes, if you are curious to know—maintained. And Tetrazzini holds the key to the situation, and it isn't a minor key, either.

Since Hammerstein snuffed out the candle of his impresario ambitions, the Metropolitan Opera House, left without opposition in Gotham, has declared for a reduction in operatic salaries. Madame Tetrazzini doesn't like it, nor does any of the other tra-la-la opera artists.

Madame Tetrazzini is emphatic in declaring for her old scale—she went away up into the high C's. She is going to see to it that her $1,400 per opera performance is continued in her future engagements. That's a pretty high note, but Madame Tetrazzini is capable. Instead of reduction, advance would be more to her liking. A low wage scale isn't the proper dramatic pose for any song bird of her genius.

Tetrazzini Is Firm.

Along with the other shining lights in opera, Tetrazzini, after being sharp in her rejection of overtures for less pay, is flat in her refusal to entertain any proposition that would reduce her $1,400 per appearance. She rests there. So if you want to hear Tetrazzini, in New York, you will have to persuade the directors of the Metropolitan Opera House to strike up a different time. Tetrazzini and the rest have struck now, and it looks like the final bar in their refusal chorus.

Andreas Dippel, just in from Europe, gives an insight into the harmonies of the impressarios. He says there is going to be a re-adjustment of salaries, and continued:

"There will be no increases in salaries. There can't be. Salaries in many cases have reached beyond all reason. But now this will have to stop. Operatic stars who think they will secure higher salaries in Europe, and therefore will stay away from America, make a mistake. They will find that Europe will be guided by America, and will reduce the salaries just as we cut them down."

Hammerstein's son in New York declared that Tetrazzini refuses to have any dealings with Gatti-Casazza of the Metropolitan. Here is a letter Madame Tetrazzini has penned from abroad:

Prima Donna's Letter.

London, May 27, 1910.

"Dear Sir—Having read in a number of American newspapers announcements of my singing at the Metropolitan, New York, at the Boston Opera House, in Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities, I write to inform you that up to the present I have concluded no such arrangements with so many opera societies.

"The American papers have always treated me so courteously that I do not wish them to be deceived by any misstatements. I certainly hope and expect to return to America, and that at no distant date. I have already received a number of offers. I have entered into no contract, however, with the management of any of the opera houses mentioned. My plans for next season are at present, I repeat, not matured. I hope to give you full particulars later. Sincerely yours,

(Signed) "LUISA TETRAZZINI."

GIRL WEDS HER SAILOR RESCUER

The wedding of Miss Florence Henderson of Roslindale and Andrew Campbell, chief boatswain's mate of the battleship New Jersey, who are to-day visiting New York on their honeymoon, is the climax of a pretty romance. The couple first met three years ago, when Campbell rescued Miss Henderson from drowning in the Charles River after she had been upset in a canoeing accident. The sailor's heroism won her admiration. A friendship sprang up between them that gradually ripened into love and before Campbell left port he proposed marriage to Miss Henderson. It was agreed they should be married when the New Jersey again came to Boston. When the battleship docked at the navy yard Campbell obtained a month's furlough and started for Knoll street, Roslindale, where Miss Henderson waited to receive him. They were married in St. Stephen's Church. Nearly half the crew of the New Jersey gathered at the South Station and cheered the couple as they boarded the train.

MEXICAN BANDITS MURDER THREE

MEXICO CITY, June 4.—News arrived here of a bloody attack by eighteen bandits, headed by the famous Santanon, on the hacienda Bella Vista, in the southeast part of Oaxaca. The manager, Robert Voight, and two native employes were killed. Mrs Voight was bound and brutally mistreated. After looting the house the bandits proceeded to the hacienda La Pomona and with revolvers forced the manager, Guillermo Gullinger, to turn over $4,000 to them. Two other haciendas were also attacked.

IMPORTANT REALTY REAL IN WEST END

Among the sales reported to-day was that of the property at No. 29 Lynde street, between Cambridge and Green streets, West End, comprising a four and one-half story brick house and 1,670 square feet of land, from Mary A. DeDering to Patrick Sullivan et ux. It is all taxed for $10,500, of which $6,700 is on the land.

Anna J. Harmon has sold to Margaret H. Lawson the three and one-half story brick house and 1,240 square feet of land at No. 286 Shawmut avenue, near Waltham street, South End. This estate is assessed on a total valuation of $5,600, of which $2,600 is on the land.

Another South End property sold is that at No. 49 East Dedham street, near Harrison avenue, which has been purchased by Samuel Weinstein from the Cornelius A. Ladley estate, et al. There is a brick house and 1080 square feet of land in the parcel, all taxed for $3800, of which $1800 is on the land.

Robert H. Ford has sold to Hyman Bornstein the seven three-story octagon-front, brick houses and 10,562 square feet of land at Nos. 60-72 Bromley street, near Bromley Park, Roxbury. It is all assessed for $14,700, of which $4200 is on the land.

The John P. Weber estate has sold to Robert H. Ford the six three-story, swell-front, brick houses and 8316 square feet of land, all taxed for $11,800, at Nos. 35-39 and 43-47 Bickford street, near Minden street, Roxbury. The land is rated for $3300.

In Dorchester the frame house and 10,500 square feet of land at No. 73 Fuller street, near Atherstone street, all taxed for $2500, have been purchased by Margaret E. Foley from Florence Woods. The land is taxed for $1600.

Isaac Heller has sold to Thomas M. Smith a lot of 5050 square feet of land, taxed for $1700, at the corner of Pleasant and Beach streets, Dorchester.

COLDEST JUNE 4 FOR 29 YEARS

To-day is the coldest June 4th for Boston in twenty-nine years. Early to-day the thermometer registered 46 degrees, and at noon the mercury had climbed but 4 degrees. Not since 1881 has this city been as cold on a June 4th. In that year the temperature got as low as 44.

The clear skies and bright sunlight fooled people as they left their homes today. After they were outdoors a chill breeze from the northeast drove the majority of them back for warmer clothing.

New England generally is shivering today. This part of the country has the distinction of being the coldest in the United States. From Northfield, Vt., are reports of freezing weather with the mercury as low as 32.

Slightly warmer weather is promised for Sunday, with the wind from the same direction. The same clear skies are also predicted. To-day is the first half-holiday of the season, but the unusual cold checked the first rush of pleasure seekers to the resorts.

BLUE AND GRAY TO MINGLE JULY 4

SPRINGFIELD, June 4.—The commingling of the blue and gray, an unusual sight in Massachusetts, will be seen in Springfield on Independence Day, when A. P. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans of Petersburg, Va., will be entertained by E. K. Wilcox Post of the Grand Army.

CHARLES TAFT, SAILING, SEES PARTY SUCCESS

NEW YORK, June 4.—The Hamburg-American steamship Amerika, sailed today with a heavy passenger list, but the "Summer swallows" bound for Europe shivered under wraps and carried more blankets and shawls abroad than is customary during the month of June.

Charles P. Taft of Ohio, brother of the President, was among the passengers. He said that he believed that the confidence of the people in the Republican party was unshaken, and that the party would win in the next election. He said that he was not in politics, and did not know whether Colonel Roosevelt could run again. He denied that he was a candidate for the Senate from Ohio.

"I felt grieved about the slump in the Philadelphia National League Club," he said. "The report that I was interested financially in the club was erroneous. I own the land on which is the park; that is all. Baseball is more popular than ever and I do not believe in syndicate ball."

Mr. Taft will do some motoring abroad, as will Richard Croker, Jr., and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Duke and the family of Mrs. William Thayer Brown of Newport. In the Brown group is Master Brown, said to be the richest boy in the world.

The first-class accommodations were crowded. Mr. Taft had imperial suite No. 1, the finest on the ship. Mr. and Mrs Guggenheim took a butler and a chauffeur.

SPAIN'S RULERS ARE BOTH ILL

MADRID, June 4.—Physicians of King Alfonso are alarmed over his condition, and it is feared that another operation for the affection of tympanum of the ear is inevitable and imminent. The condition of Queen Victoria is also serious and court circles are no less alarmed for her than for the King. Worry over the latter is said to be responsible for the Queen's illness, following the recent birth of a fourth child, who died immediately.

Alfonso's visit to England for the funeral of King Edward greatly fatigued him, and the anarchist plot against him and King Manuel of Portugal added to his cares. The conservative element is alarmed, for the death of Alfonso might mean the end of monarchy in Spain.

AGED WOMAN SUFFERS BY HOODLUMS' ACT

Mrs. Elizabeth Andrews, seventy-six years old, of No. 27 High street, Charlestown, is confined to her bed as a result of being struck in the head by a flower pot hurled through a window of her home by one of a crowd of hoodlums. The aged lady has a gash in her head and a severe cut on her arm, caused by the broken glass. She was seated near the window when a crowd of hoodlums passed the house. They took several flower pots from the window sill of a neighbor's house and hurled them through the glass panes of the window at which Mrs. Andrews was seated. James J. Murphy, nineteen, and Daniel Carney, twenty, whom the police say were the leaders of the gang, were caught after a half mile chase, and are arraigned in the Charlestown District Court to-day on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Dr. Estabrooks' 'Alveolar' Method OF REPLACING LOST TEETH

Without the Use of Old Style Crowns and Bridges

Popular Prices It is not necessary to pay high rates for this kind of work. If you have a few solid teeth or roots left the missing teeth can be restored without recourse to the old style crowns or bridges. Dr. Estabrooks' improved "ALVEOLAR" Method is absolutely painless and there is not the slightest appearance of artificiality in the mouth when the Dr. Estabrooks System is used.

ANCHOR DENTURE PLATE NO ROOF

$8.00 Full Set This celebrated Anchor Denture plate is the finest thing of its kind in existence. No roof to prevent the perfect taste. The wearer can talk better than with old-style plate—comfortable, cool and clean and fits better, it never drops, shifts or displaces to cause the wearer embarrassment.

Dr. Estabrooks makes the best set of teeth that dental science can produce for $8, that is all that it will be necessary for any one to pay in his establishment unless a gold or special plate is ordered. A $5 set, the best for the price, will be made if necessary.

ONE FIGHTING SLOGAN WANTED—THEN ALL JOIN SOUTH BOSTON BOOM

Make South Boston—
Easy to get into.
Good to look at.
An attractive residential district.
A good place to stay in.
A good place to invest capital in.

These are the "Boom South Boston" suggestions of Mr. E. W. Ottie of No. 305 Warren street, Roxbury.

Mr. Ottie to-day makes another suggestion which will interest the thousands who are following the "Boom South Boston" idea contest. He says:

"Get a snappy slogan to fight under."

Perhaps you, who read this, can suggest such a slogan.

HOW would you boom South Boston?

This tournament of ideas, inaugurated by the BOSTON AMERICAN in aid of the three South Boston organizations, has been open now two weeks. The question will be "before the house" but a few days longer.

Don't Delay Your Letters.

Hundreds of answers have been received, many of them helpful, excellent, worthy of consideration, as, for instance, the two that are printed to-day, but the question has yet to be approached in a big way, by a man of ideas, of imagination, of broad gauge.

Is there none such who will seriously devote a few hours to an important question:

"How would you boom South Boston?"

The AMERICAN, to add interest to this symposium, and not because mere cash could be payment in full for even ONE excellent idea, offers $100 in gold for suggestions.

To the author of the suggestion considered best by the Boom South Boston committee the BOSTON AMERICAN will pay $50 in gold, $20 to be awarded for the second best answer, $10 for the third best suggestion and $5 for each of the four next in merit.

Mayor Fitzgerald will act as chairman of the committee. All answers will be turned over to this committee next week. And now, while time is fleeting—

How would you boom South Boston?

Readers of the AMERICAN will doubtless agree that Mr. Ottie of Roxbury writes an interesting letter. It is well worthy of reproduction in full. Says our Warren street correspondent:

What to Do.

Roxbury, May 30, 1910.

South Boston is a valuable part of Greater Boston and should make the most of every opportunity, not only for the wellbeing of its own citizens, but for the benefit of Greater Boston as well.

First and foremost, to boom South Boston, make it easy to get into. Insist on better transportation facilities until you get them—larger cars, quicker, easier service, more routes by tunnel, train, ferry and bridge.

Make South Boston good to look at. Clean up the streets and lots, tear down rickety buildings and flaring signboards, plant new trees, make it an attractive residential district.

Make South Boston good to stay in. Improve Marine Park and Pleasure Bay. Let the city take the vacant land in front of the L street baths and turn it into an open air gymnasium equal to Charlesbank gym. Give South Boston a branch library and a municipal building similar to the one on Columbia road. This building would serve as a permanent nucleus or headquarters for all the activities of the peninsula.

Work for All Hands.

Make South Boston a good place to invest capital in. Remove the fish industry from T wharf to the Commonwealth docks. Dredge the mud flats and permit easy access to the wharves.

Form a committee or an informal commission of the most prominent citizens and business men to direct and initiate movements affecting the community, such as getting manufacturers to bring their business there, building up better residential quarters, working for the weal of South Boston in every possible way and waking up and guiding the public spirit of the community.

Get a snappy slogan to fight under.

Last of all, a long pull and a strong pull and a pull altogether by the friends and men of South Boston!

E. W. OTTIE.
No. 305 Warren street, Roxbury, Mass.

Another good citizen writes to-day—good because, although he lives in Malden, he shares in the ambitions and aspiration of his fellow Americans in South Boston—is Mr. P. J. Tracy.

Mr. Tracy's Suggestions.

Mr. Tracy gives expression to a popular opinion when he says that the one great desideratum of a movement of this kind is the man who shall take hold of it, with no thought of self, and lead it to success. Such a man, he believes, backed up by the right sort of committee, and that committee supported by all the people, can work wonders for South Boston. Mr. Tracy suggests in part:

Boom South Boston:

I would suggest, first, that the merchants and business men of South Boston form a business association and elect a good live and energetic man as chairman, a business man with progressive and modern ideas. Appoint a committee from that association as an agitating committee. Appeal to the people of South Boston for their support.

Demonstrate to them the necessity of patronizing home industry. Educate them to circulate their money among their own merchants throughout the entire district. Co-operation is absolutely necessary to boom South Boston.

Second, abolish the old and dejected looking tenement houses in certain localities and build houses with modern improvements for the younger generation. They are the kindergarten of a business South Boston. Demand of the city government wider and cleaner streets.

They are needed. Better car service from the city proper is also needed. It is up to the people of South Boston to co-operate with the association to gain this. Then you will "boom South Boston."

Why do not the business men of South Boston wake up and boost the peninsular district?

Publicity and advertising is sure to boom South Boston.

P. J. TRACY.
No. 68 Fry street, Malden, Mass.

What Would You Do?

Let us state the problem once more.

Here is a fine community of 70,000 people. Part of Boston, right at the very door of the city proper, they are yet isolated. Nature has done everything for them.

The sea is all around them. Great railroad facilities are within their reach. But man has done little. Neither city nor State, railroad or railway, has helped South Boston in a large way. South Boston—meaning the district and not its people—has nothing but the bare necessities.

What shall be done for her?

What would you do for her?

Given these unsurpassed natural advantages, and supposing that 70,000 people were with you in your plans, how would you "boom South Boston?"

It is a "big" question. It ought to be treated in a "big" way. Try it to-day. Write to "Boom South Boston," in care of the BOSTON AMERICAN.

ONE MOMENT, PLEASE!

That letter—

The one you were going to write.

You haven't forgotten?

The subject was going to be

BOOM SOUTH BOSTON!

Please write it to-day.

Now is the best time.

Seventy thousand people will thank you for a good suggestion.

How would you boom South Boston?

"Boom South Boston,"
In care of the Boston American.

CALLS HIBBARD DEATH TRAGEDY

Caustic criticism of the former political friends of the late George A. Hibbard is made in an editorial published in this week's issue of the Republic, Mayor Fitzgerald's weekly publication.

The editorial, in part, reads:

"The death of former Mayor Hibbard is the most piteous tragedy of public life in the annals of his native city—if, indeed, it can be matched in any city. The Pharisaical 'reformers' who used this honest and liberal minded public servant for their own ends until last Autumn and then flung him aside as a mere 'stop-gap' that had served its purpose, should stand back shamed and remorseful in the majestic presence of death while the plain truth is told."

MAYOR AT TAFT DETROIT DINNER

DETROIT, June 4.—John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor of Boston, was a guest at the Board of Commerce banquet for President Taft. He had to change previous plans so as to arrive from Pittsburg in time for the big event. F.'s chief motive in visiting Detroit at this time was to gather data that will help his city intelligently to spend the income accruing from the Parkman bequest it recently received.

To-day he is inspecting the aquarium and horticultural building on Belle Isle, his intention being to suggest the erection of a somewhat similar building in Boston.

400-POUND ANCHOR DROPS ON SAILOR

GLOUCESTER, June 4.—Robert Wolfe of the schooner Metamora, at the wharf of the Atlantic Maritime Company, was caught under a falling anchor and received probably fatal injuries. Wolfe was at work on the port side of the vessel near the 400-pound anchor which was hanging by one fluke to the gunwale. When his work made it necessary to move the anchor a topping lift was made fast.

The weight of the anchor parted the lift and the falling weight crushed down on Wolfe, pinning him to the wharf.

TRIES TO SHOOT GIRL IN STORE

Walking into the store at No. 19 Cooper street, Ephraim Albert, twenty-four, of No. 20 Cooper street, drew a revolver and shot at Miss Sarah Goldberg, the twenty-year-old daughter of the proprietor. The bullet missed her.

After the shooting Albert walked slowly up the street. He was later arrested on the charge of attempting to kill and is arraigned in court to-day.

Miss Goldberg formerly lived in the flat below Albert, and recently announced her engagement to Frank H. Small, said to be a relative of Albert. She emphatically denied that Albert had ever been attentive to her, and said all she knew was that he had come into the store, and with the words, "Give me those letters," had fired the shot.

"I don't believe he was in his right mind," she declared.

DANCER, ENGAGED ONE MONTH, WHO REFUSES TO WED

MISS ORMA ADAMS RICHARDSON

COLD CLOSES SCHOOLS.

WESTFIELD, June 4.—Owing to the cold weather the schools in untington were closed a half day this week. The thermometers registered but fifty degrees in some of the rooms.

TEMPER PARTS YOUNG COUPLE

After an engagement of less than a month Miss Orma Adams Richardson of No. 17 Webster street, Allston, society dancer, and Raynor Huntington Allen of Cincinnati, a Tech senior, have agreed to disagree. According to an announcement made by the young woman, the engagement was broken by mutual consent, "because of incompatibility of temper and an overdeveloped artistic temperament."

Miss Richardson is a member of the Studio Club and other organizations. She has danced at numerous charity affairs. She is twenty-one, one year the junior of Mr. Allen, who is the son of a manufacturer. Allen expects to be graduated from Tech within a short time. He lives at the Phi Beta Epsilon fraternity house at No. 37 Beacon street, and is president of the Technology Athletic Association, is captain of the track team and president of the Walker Club. Miss Richardson's mother has the following to say:

"They just didn't get along together, and that's all there is to it. You see, both of them are quick tempered; she is an artist, a dancer, and, well—they weren't suited to each other, that's all. He is a nice young man and he is especially popular, but they were not happy together, and it was better that they find it out now than after it was too late. There are too many divorces these days, anyway."

Julia Ward Howe Says:

I myself did not learn Greek till I was fifty years old, so let no girl think that it is too late for her to begin this study.

Read Mrs. Howe's message to American women, written expressly for the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN on her ninety-first birthday. You will find it only in to-morrow's BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

LYNN ELKS TO DEDICATE REST

Several hundred Lynn Elks will take part in the dedication of the Elks' Rest at Pine Grove Cemetery, Lynn, to-morrow afternoon and will formally take possession of the handsome memorial bequeathed to the lodge by the late John D. O'Shea, past exalted ruler and grand trustee.

Under direction of Exalted Ruler John H. Canniffe, the lodge members, with District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Peter McCann of Chelsea and suite, will march from the lodge home on Exchange street to the cemetery at 2 o'clock. A platoon of police and Lurvey's band will head the procession.

Edward F. McSweeney of Boston will deliver the oration, and District Deputy McCann and suite will have charge of the ceremony. In the centre of the Rest is a large bronze Elk placed on a high granite pedestal.

TAFT AT UNVEILING OF CUSTER'S STATUE

MONROE, Mich., June 4.—President Taft, as representative of the Aemrican people, paid tribute to the memory of General George A. Custer to-day when the equestrian statue of that warrior was unveiled here. Mrs. Custer was among the guests. The Custer veterans formed the escort of honor for the President. He arrived for a stay of four hours before his departure for Jackson to attend the unveiling of a tablet on the site where the Republican party was organized under the oaks in 1854. Nevin B. Custer, the only surviving brother of the man who fell on June 25, 1876, was present.

TAFT TAKES RAP AT "MUCK-RAKERS"

I refer to a class of newspapers and magazines that are properly criticised as "muck-rakers" that rely for their circulation on the vicious and unfounded attacks upon the honesty and upright character and patriotic motives of men in public life, and upon those conspicuous and prominent generally.

This muck-raking is an outgrowth and probably the unavoidable aftermath of a laudable and necessary attack upon abuses which have shown themselves in a form of coroporate greed and control of politics. It was necessary to have a housecleaning in this regard, and Mr. Roosevelt led the movement and much has been accomplished in clarifying business and political methods.—President Taft to graduates at Ohio Northern University, Ada., O.

SOCIAL WORKERS ELECT HUB MEN

Two Boston men have just been honored by the National Conference of the Jewish Social Workers at St. Louis. David Blaustein, who spent many years in this city, and who recently became connected with the School of Philanthropy in New York, was elected president, and Max Mitchell, superintendent of the Federated Jewish Charities, was selected as treasurer.

JOHN A. STEVENS ILL.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 4.—Friends of John Austin Stevens, founder and first president of the Sons of the Revolution and former secretary of the New York Chamber of Commerce, are entertaining considerable anxiety because of his illness, according to statements given out here.

$1,400,000 TAX FOR THE U. S.

Collector of Internal Revenue James D. Gill is engaged with the collection of $1,400,000 in corporation tax bills. The constitutionality of the tax is yet undetermined by the United States Supreme Court, before which body the question is still pending.

As the tax is due before July 1, the collector expects to have gathered in the full amount before the question of its legality is settled.

The tax amounts to 1 per cent. on the net income in excess of $5,000 of each corporation doing business in Massachusetts. The collector has sent out about 2,500 bills.

STRIKE OF RAZOR MEN THREATENED

Open threats to call a strike among the 800 girl employes of the Gillette Safety Razor Company at South Boston, if that company does not effect a speedy settlement with the Machinists' Union, to-day were made by Thomas L. Wilson, international vice-president of the men's organization. The date set for calling the girls out is kept a secret, but Mr. Wilson intimated that it would not be extended beyond Monday at the latest.

BOY FLED SCHOOL TO SEE CIRCUS

Alfred Rivetts, a lad of fourteen, belonging in Brockton, is very willing that he be returned to the Walpole Truant school, from which institution he made his escape, in order that he might see the circus. The boy, tired and footsore, walked into station 10 and requested that the official in charge notify the school authorities of his whereabouts. He was given shelter and will be returned.

BANK LOOTER COLEMAN WILL GO TO NEW YORK TO BE A PAID WITNESS

George W. Coleman will be taken to New York to testify on June 25 against James Strausneider, alias "Big Lem," accused as an accomplice of Coleman in stealing the funds of the National City Bank of Cambridge. Strausneider, who is believed by Federal authorities to have been the leader of the gang of faro bank gamblers which fleeced Coleman, is out on $10,000 bail pending the hearing. Several other witnesses from Boston will be called against Strausneider.

Coleman will be called to the witness stand at the trial of William J. (Big Bill) Keliher again next week, this time as a witness for the defence. Keliher is on trial charged with having aided Coleman in stealing the Cambridge bank's funds and part of his defence will be a claim that Cashier Frank L. Earl knew that Coleman was looting the bank. Coleman will be called by the defence in an attempt to substantiate that claim.

Keliher's Defence.

Keliher's trial is resumed in the Federal Court here Tuesday morning. Attorney H. H. Pratt, one of Keliher's counsel, will at that time complete his opening argument for the defendant and finish his outline of Keliher's defence.

Mr. Pratt was approaching discussion of Coleman's claim that Keliher had offered him $100,000 if he would not expose the faro gang when court adjourned yesterday afternoon. He is expected to take up this important question when he resumes his argument Tuesday morning. Mr. Pratt has already said that he will show that the interviews between Coleman and Keliher at Winthrop were granted by "Big Bill" at Coleman's request. Mr. Pratt denied that Keliher had sent for Coleman.

Part, at least, of Keliher's plan of defence was indicated by Mr. Pratt. It appeared from his argument that the defence considers of utmost importance the question of whether or not Coleman deceived Cashier Earl. Unless this was proven, Mr. Pratt declared, Keliher could not be convicted. He then continued to show how he hoped to break down the Government's case on this point.

Cashier's Account Withdrawn.

To show that Mr. Earl knew what was going on in the bank, Mr. Pratt offered to prove that Earl's deposit had dwindled to $1.61, and that even that small deposit had been withdrawn before the bank closed.

In support of the charges which he made against the former cashier, Mr. Pratt said that he would show that Mr. Earl knew as far back as August, 1906, that his personal account was overdrawn and remained overdrawn for about a month.

And that during the years 1906, 1907 and 1908 Cashier Earl knew that Coleman was living a loose life and spending money which must have been procured from some other means than his salary as bookkeeper of the bank.

LOOTING OF BANK CAUSES FAILURE IN CAMBRIDGE

Albina S. Reed, one of the defrauded depositors in the National City Bank of Cambridge and proprietor of La Breque millinery parlors at No. 715 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court. Her liabilities are estimated at $12,299.78 and her assets at $2,335.23.

Her counsel said that the inability of Miss Reed to get the $175 which she had in the wrecked National City Bank of Cambridge prevented her from tiding her business over the present embarrassment.

Miss Reed was the companion of Mrs. Marguerite L. Taylor when the latter went to New York. Mrs. Taylor at one time employed at the millinery store.

MLLE. POLAIRE, UGLIEST WOMAN, IS IN AMERICA

NEW YORK, June 4.—Mlle. Polaire, the noted French actress, said to be the homeliest woman in the world, arrived in New York on the liner Savoie prepared for a ten-week theatrical engagement in America. Incidentally, her press agent claims for Mlle. Polaire the smallest waist in the world, comparatively speaking. It measured just fourteen inches around. Through an interpreter, the French woman declared that she was not responsible at all for the reputation of being the ugliest ever.

"I would like to get hold of the person who started that story," she said when landing. Talking of her career in France, she was asked about the story that she had stolen W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.'s, motor car.

"I didn't," she replied in French. "Why, after that story was published Mr. Vanderbilt sent a lawyer to me in Paris to get me to sign a statement that I had never ridden with him in his automobile. I signed it." Asked about her reported $5,000 uncut diamond, she said, "I've one worth $5,000, which I left in Paris. It is not uncut, however."

"Did an American give it to you?"

"It dropped from the heavens," she answered with a demure smile.

HARTFORD CALLS ROXBURY PASTOR

The Fourth Congregational Church of Hartford, Ct., has issued a call to the Rev. Dr. James J. Dunlop, who for the past thirteen years has been the pastor of the Roxbury Presbyterian Church, at the corner of Warren and Woodbine streets. Dr. Dunlop was a member of the executive committee having in charge the recent Chapman-Alexander campaign in Boston. The church to which Dr. Dunlop is called is one of the strongest in Hartford.

ABERNATHY BOYS GUESTS OF HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Representative John A. Keliher of Boston chaperoned the little Abernathy boys around the Capitol. The youngsters, who are riding their ponies all the way from Oklahoma to New York to meet Colonel Roosevelt, called on Speaker Cannon and received the unusual distinction of the privileges of the floor of the House.

Special Notice.

DIABETES

The most valuable result of 20 years' work at Civil Engineering in the Tropics was the important discovery of a simple, harmless herb that is an actual specific for Diabetes, a disease hitherto considered incurable. To prove that it will give immediate relief in the most aggravated cases, I will send a 50c. package (one week's supply) for only 25c.

Write me to-day and see how quickly Diabetol Herb will reduce both the specific gravity and the sugar, restore weight and build up the system. Spread the good news to the afflicted. Booklet and diet list mailed free. F. M. Ames, Box 51A., Whitney Point, N. Y.

ROOSEVELT IS DENOUNCED BY THE EGYPTIANS

LONDON, June 4.—Theodore Roosevelt's Guildhall speech on Egypt was denounced as an insult to the whole civilized world in a statement issued to-day condemning the ex-President, by the Young Egyptian Committee.

PUBLIC-SPIRITED CITIZENS ENDORSE HEARST CRITICISM

NEW YORK, June 4.—The Guild Hall speech of Theodore Roosevelt in London, which called forth a statement by William Randolph Hearst directing the attention of the American people to the former President's gratuitous advice to the British Government to rule in Egypt with an iron rod, was widely commented upon and discussed throughout the country. Few could be found who did not agree with the spirit of Mr. Hearst's letter and his attitude.

Politicians, especially of the Republican organization, were deeply interested and wondered what effect the speech of Colonel Roosevelt will have upon his future career in politics. They were chary, however, about expressing a public opinion.

Dr. Felix Adler, head of the School for Ethical Culture, said: "I regret very much that Roosevelt should have made the speech. First, because it seemed out of keeping with the occasion. Second, because he might have said what he had to say without dealing harshly with the aspirations of the Egyptian Nationalist party."

Telegraphing from Lake George, George Foster Peabody said:

"I gladly avail myself of a chance to express further my most vigorous protest against Mr. Roosevelt's assumption that he represents the thought of the United States in his amazing glorification of force, even to violence and injustice.

"I would also voice a protest against his claim to be either a democrat or a radical. His record in his writings and his administration is all too clear to the contrary. Every true American citizen should protest against the bad manners, morals and methods which are exemplified in Mr. Roosevelt's Guildhall speech.

"How grandly the conferring of the city's freedom would have challenged a really radical Democrat to speak for freedom and voice the true sentiment of the United States, which has throughout a century mightily advanced the peaceful progress of the world to universal human rights."

Representative John M. Garner of Texas, acting Democratic whip, commenting on Colonel Roosevelt's Guildhall speech, said in Washington:

"The former President will soon be compelled to get busy explaining his most un-American speech. It would make interesting reading if the criticisms I have heard by Republicans could be printed. Rabid Rooseveltites say he has 'put his foot in it,' and that his speech will prove a boomerang. It's the first time, they say, the former President has laid himself open to attack from all sides."

NAME BOAT FOR HIBBARD.

The trustees of the Pauper Department have voted to name their institution boat, the contract for which they have awarded to the Lawleys, the George A. Hibbard. The boat will cost about $40,000, and will be the finest of the city fleet.

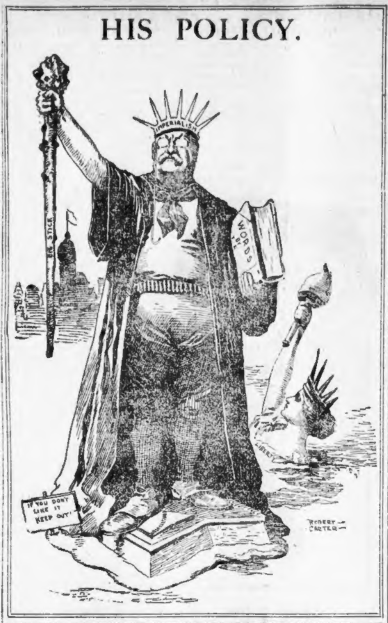
HIS POLICY.



NATURE OUT TO BEAT ICEMAN AND OTHER ODD TALES

IN CRASH WITH WILD CAT.

WINSTED, Ct., June 4.—Reuben Mason of New Hartford heard a hound chasing animals he supposed were deer and started to investigate. Reaching a brush fence, he got on his hands and knees and was crawling through an opening, when a large wild cat struck him on the head, almost stunning him. The catamount was being pursued by a hound and had attempted to get through the aperture at the same time as Mason. The cat snarled and took refuge in a tree.

EDITOR EATS HIS OWN WORDS.

RUSSELLVILLE, Ala., June 4.—The young people of Quitman had a dance, and the next issue of the Globe contained a scathing denunciation of those who participated. C. W. Wier, with others, went to the office of the Globe, where they found Editor Page who was made to chew the paper upon which the attack was printed and forced to swallow it. Page has sued for $10,000.

HATS "HINDER SALVATION."

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 4.—The Rev. Dr. Samuel Guy Snowden of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, says: "I believe that big hats are a hindrance to the salvation of souls in our churches. I believe a large number of churchgoers find it hard to become interested in sermons because of the fine plumage which attracts their attention and shuts off all view of the pastor."

CHILD CAUGHT LIKE A FISH.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Doris Riesdorph, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Riesdorph of Riverhead, L. I., was playing with the little son of a neighbor, when she grabbed the chain hook of a hammock, and placing the hook in her mouth jumped from the top of the veranda steps. The hook penetrated her cheek and she hung at the end of the chain.

CHICKS DIE ON COTTON DIET.

WINSTED, Ct., June 4.—Mme. Alma Gluck, the Metropolitan Opera House soprano, will soon return to her farm at Lake George, in which she takes great delight. She said that a brood of her chicks hatched seemed so tender that she wrapped them in cotton. Later she found them all dead, as they had eaten the cotton.

ICE WATER FROM A GEYSER.

HELENA, Mon., June 4.—The most remarkable of all the natural phenomena in the Yellowstone National Park has been discovered by Winter Keeper Bunsen. It is a geyser which plays regularly every twenty-four hours and throws a stream 150 feet high whose water is ice cold instead of boiling hot. The new geyser is called the Valentine.

BOSSY "EATS" BALLOON; DEAD.

AMHERST, June 4.—One of the small balloons sent up from Pittsfield for scientific purposes by Professor Rotch of the Blue Hills Observatory, has been located at Dwight station. The balloon had been partly swallowed by a cow, which had choked to death in her efforts to get it down.

SEPTUAGENARIAN SUES BRIDE.

NEW HAVEN, June 4.—Burr S. Peck, the septuagenarian who has lived in the heart of the Yale University section for the past fifty years, brought suit against his twenty-one-year-old wife, Mae Burns Peck, on the ground of intolerable cruelty. Peck is worth $50,000.

SERVICE BOARD LEFT WITH FULL POWER

By a rising vote of 14 to 8, the Senate defeated a bill to prohibit the Civil Service Commission from interfering with employes who have held office for six months without having been confirmed by the Commission. This bill was passed by the House when the feeling against the Hibbard turn-down by the Commission was at its height.

SENATE KILLS MILK PERMIT BILL

Senator Tinkham's bill to prohibit the sale of milk in Boston without a permit from the Board of Health was killed in the Senate on a voice vote. Tinkham moved reconsideration of the defeat, and the Senate postponed action on this motion till Monday.

SPEEDERS TRY TO CUT HORSE HILL RECORD

By J. C. KERRISON.

Dead Horse Hill, Worcester, to-day is the scene of many a hard fought contest for motor hill climbing honors, and if the course record is not lowered everyone in the heart of the Commonwealth will be most decidedly surprised. Something like thirty-seven entries have been received for the various events, and many private trials at the hill have been made.

The greatest of interest is of course centered in the high powered class, that open to all, and in this some decidedly speedy work is anticipated. Caleb Bragg, with the Fiat with which he won distinguished honors on the Indianapolis track, will then be pitted against Harry Grant in the Vanderbilt cup winner, and Stanley Martin in the Houpt. Bragg and his car arrived too late to get a trial crack at the course. Grant left Boston for Worcester early to-day, going over the road and trying out his car, while Martin was in Worcester and made several tries at the hill, showing considerable form and ability to make fast time.

The Maxwell fleet of cars showed form in the several attempts against the course record indicative of the establishment of new marks in their particular classes.

The only electric entered for the meet is the Babcock, by the Waite-Robbins Company of Boston.

Fred Marriott, whose miraculous escape from death at Ormond will never be forgotten, is to enter the contest and will make an especial effort to prevent Bragg from capturing the record of the hill. John J. Kingsley of Boston, in his big Thomas car, is going after the amateur record for the hill and he feels confident that he already has that mark nailed to the radiator of the car.

The cars entered and the drivers are as follows:

Gentleman Roadster (electric, F. A. Babcock, Jr.; Houpt-Rockwell, Stanley Martin; Alco, Harry F. Grant; Buick, Duncan Hooker; Warren Detroit "30"; Maxwell, Thomas Costello; Maxwell, Martin Dorley; Buick, Robert Burman; Model "100" Buick Roadster, Robert Burman; Oakland, Howard A. HOW PALE WOMEN CAN REGAIN HEALTHY COLOR

A pale face and lack of color is a sign of Anaemia or thin, weak blood. Many a woman who would otherwise be beautiful has a pallid skin that spoils her beauty. Growing children suffer from impoverished blood also. The one cure for anaemia is to supply the blood with the nutrition it lacks. Father John's Medicine does that. Because the ingredients are of the same kind of food and nourishment that blood and tissue are made of—pure and wholesome—is why Father John's Medicine makes flesh and strength.

Double Legal Stamps will be given with every purchase mornings, until 12 o'clock noon, at Wolf's, "My Clothier," corner Hanover and Portland streets. Single stamps thereafter.

COPPERS SELL OFF IN BOSTON

STATE STREET — Copper shares at the opening of the Boston market were fairly firm, but trading was very dull. Demand from the bearish element was large enough to cause this firmness, but when this element was apparently satisfied with the advance they made another attack which caused a general reaction throughout the list.

Report that copper on hand on May 1st showed an increase and that because of the general curtailment in business consumption should decrease, along with the cut in Calumet's dividend and rumors of a cut in the dividends of Amalgamated and Anaconda, all tended to cause liquidation.

However, Balaklava continued to show good buying as a result of a report from Butte that the mine was one of the best opened there.

In the general list most of the selling came from New York, but local utility issues and United Fruit were firm.

FIREMEN ARE BURIED AS CHIMNEY CRASHES

Three firemen were hurt in the collapse of a chimney while they were fighting a fire in a coach house at the rear of No. 354 Ashmont street, Dorchester. William Griffin of Ladder 27, the most seriously injured, is in the City Hospital. J. J. Cradock, assistant engineer of Engine 46, who lives at No. 411 Neponset avenue, and Hoseman William Kehoe of the same company, living at No. 11 Toland street, Neponset, are confined to their homes. All are badly cut and bruised and their injuries, although not serious, are painful.

OLDEST CIGARMAKER DEAD IN CAMBRIDGE

Charles L. Church, who was the oldest member of the Cigarmakers' Union of Boston, in continued good standing, died last evening at his home No. 14 Summer street, Cambridge. Mr. Church was seventy-six years old. He was known to practically every cigarmaker in Greater Boston. Mr. Church was formerly a professional singer with the old minstrel firm of Moore and Burgess, and possessed a magnificent tenor voice. He was born in England and came to America when a young man.

BROWN-STEVENS GAME OFF.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 4.—The Brown University-Stevens Institute game scheduled for this afternoon here was called off by the latter team, owing to the crippled condition of two or three of the best men and the fact that several members of the squad are ineligible. The Stevens Institute team has disbanded for the season, West Point being their last opponents.

$1,000,000 LIFE INSURANCE.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Arthur S. Ford, treasurer of the People's Portland Cement Company, this week took out a line of life insurance amounting to $1,000,000. The cement company will pay the premiums. The idea is to protect persons financially interested in the corporation.

STOCKS RALLY AFTER SLUMP

NEW YORK, June 4.—Supporting orders rallied general prices at the opening of the stock market to-day, although Union Pacific, the leader in yesterday's break, failed to share in the improvement, opening at 168¼ to 168½. It closed yesterday at 168⅝ after having sold down to 168. Southern Pacific opened at 118⅞, 1¼ points above yesterday's close. The action of Union Pacific caused considerable uneasiness, as it was generally viewed as the index to the general railroad securities market in the present situation.

A little later, with Union Pacific and Reading in the lead, prices began to break sharply and volumes of stocks were thrown on the market in what appeared a continuation of yesterday's demoralization. Union Pacific sold off to the new low record of 165⅝, but rallied on hastily engineered supporting orders to over 167.

Reading sold in big blocks with quotations half a point apart, running down to 148⅞ and recovering to 150 in half a dozen transactions. Steel sold down to 75⅝, an eighth above its low of yesterday, and Southern Pacific touched 117½, ⅜ above yesterday's low mark.

Public pressure, combined with the tactics of some of the biggest bear interests, proved too much for the banking interests which had come to the support of the market at the opening, and they finally withdrew their orders for the time being.

Trading was highly nervous and all sorts of rumors were in circulation. Reports that railroads were canceling all orders with equipment companies hit the shares of the latter heavily, both American Car Foundry and Pressed Steel Car suffering materially.

Losses toward the end of the first hour were estimated to have averaged two points. Mining shares were sympathetically weak on the curb.

American railroad shares were heavy sufferers in the London market, losses ranging from $1 to $5.

Supporting orders again were in evidence in the final hour and prices rallied. The close was comparatively strong and fairly steady. Union Pacific closed at 168¼, half below yesterday's final figure; Southern Pacific closed at 118¼, ⅝ better than yesterday. Reading at 151¼, ⅜ up; Steel at 76½, ¼ up; Smelters at 73⅝, ¼ up, and Amalgamated at 64, a gain of ½.

SMOOT LAUDS TAFT REFORM; ALSO LODGE

That President Taft, in his quiet manner, has actually accomplished more radical reforms in the short time he has been President than President Roosevelt even suggested, was the declaration of United States Senator Reed Smoot of Utah today at the home of Henry Haward, No. 36 Amory street, Brookline, where he speaks to-night on "Mormonism" before the Thursday Club.

Senator Smoot also declared that Massachusetts will make a great mistake if it does not return Senator Lodge to the Senate next year.

It was while discussing the administration railroad bill that he made the statement comparing Taft's work with Roosevelt's.

Approves Railroad Bill.

"The administration railroad bill just passed is a step in the right direction, substantially strengthened by the amendment which was added," said Senator Smoot.

"I regret that section seven was struck out. That section would have permitted traffic agreements between railroads. President Taft was right in wanting that section retained. Railroads have always had traffic agreements; they are necessary and it is impossible to stop them from having them. They will always have them, even it illegally.

"If the people take this railroad bill and analyze it they will find that it is a step long in advance of anything ever suggested by Roosevelt."

Concerning the Paine-Aldrich agreement Senator Smoot said: "The people of the Middle West cannot see why New England protests the tariff bill now in operation. They believe it was made for New England. I think the Paine-Aldrich tariff bill is the best of its kind ever enacted into law and the results show it. The only fault I find with it is that some of the rates are too low rather than too high.

China to Be Strong Rival.

"In ten years a good many of the rates will have to be changed because we have got China and Japan to contend with. During the next five years a great deal more steel and iron will be manufactured in China and the Pacific coast trade in these products will go to China.

"It will not be long before China will be sending iron and steel into this country. They will be able to compete with the United States corporations because they can employ 15 1-3 men in China for the price paid to one workingman in the iron industry in this country to-day. It will not be long before all the celluloid works will be in China, because China has all the camphor under its domination."

Regarding Senator Lodge, he said: "I regard Senator Lodge as one of the very strong men of the country and I think Massachusetts will make a very great mistake if they do not send him back to the Senate. His absence would be a material loss to Massachusetts as well as the Senate. He watches out very carefully for New England's interests."

No Mormon Poverty.

Of Mormonism he said: "There is no such thing as poverty among the Mormons. There is never any suffering from hunger because of the system of tithes and offerings.

"Polygamy is a past issue entirely with the Mormons. It was never mandatory, but was permissible. The Mormons believe that the Bible teaches polygamy, but as long as the United States Government forbids it they bow to that superior authority, because one of the tenets of the church is to live up to the laws of the land."

GIVEN SIX MONTHS FOR BEATING SISTER

On the charge of brutally beating his sister Nellie, and breaking her nose, yesterday afternoon, Michael Scully, twenty years of age, of No. 13 Vicksburg street, South Boston, was today sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Judge Fallon in the South Boston Police Court. An additional three months was imposed for drunkenness. Scully's sister, with her face bandaged, testified against him. He appealed and was held in $600 for the Superior Court.

CUTS TONGUE FROM HORSE

When Harry Ginsburg entered his stable at No. 81 Summer street, Chelsea, he discovered that some one had cut out the tongue of one of his horses.

He found the animal suffering intense pain. The horse's tongue was lying on the stable floor.

The case has been reported to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

STREET ORGAN MUSIC FATAL TO CHILD

Attracted by the music of a hurdy-gurdy, three-year-old Lena Jordan started to cross Causeway street and stepped in front of an electric car. She was instantly killed.

Rather than wait for the emergency wagons of the Elevated Company nearly fifty men lifted the forward part of the car from the tracks so that the unconscious body of the child might be removed. The little girl was carried to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where she was given immediate attention. Death was caused by a fracture of the skull.

BRIDGE KILLS MAN ON FREIGHT CAR

An unknown man found dead on top of a freight car at South Framingham, his neck and skull broken, presumably through his having been struck by an overhead bridge, was at first supposed to have been John Horan, of No. 213 Dudley street, Roxbury. A pawn ticket found in his pockets indicated that identity. The name and address were probably assumed, as the only John Horan living in Roxbury is alive and at another address.

HIGGINS TO HOLD PRESENT OFFICE

District Attorney John J. Higgins of Middlesex County, mentioned as the most prominent candidate to succeed Attorney-General Dana Malone in the November elections, says that he will not run for that office. The reason given by Mr. Higgins for his withdrawal from the field is the great amount of unfinished work in his office, which he thinks would be unfair to put on a new man. Nor would his seeking the nomination for Attorney-General be for the best interests of the Republican party, he says.

WATCHES DOCTORS AMPUTATE LEG

NEW YORK, June 4.—James Bannon, suffering but never twitching a muscle, lay on a stretcher in the street and calmly watched hospital surgeons amputate his leg after a car on Grand street had run over him. Bannon had fallen under the wheels. He recovered consciousness before the wrecking crew arrived to jack up the car and showed remarkable nerve while being got out and as the surgeons were forced to perform the hurried operation to save his life.

MILK PRODUCERS ESTABLISH DAIRY

LANCASTER, N. BRIDE OF ART CHANGES TO CONTRACTOR

After five years of persistent wooing Miss Josephine Mae Danforth, a popular Lynn actress, has heeded the call of Cupid and has made what she says is her last contract and also her best, for on June 15 she will become the wife of Harry E. Brown, a well-to-do contractor and builder of Northampton.

The wedding is the result of a invitation the pretty Lynn girl accepted to dine at the home of the groom's mother while she was appearing with the Gage Stock company in that western Massachusetts city. Miss Danforth, who is a striking brunette, didn't expect that the invitation would lead to a romance.

Young Brown, who had become well established in his business, didn't take too kindly to the fact that his mother had invited an actress to dine at their home, but before the second course of the dinner had been served he had changed his mind. He wished that Miss Danforth's company was to linger, but when its engagement ended and she went away, he began to master the art of making love through the mails.

The correspondence gave Brown an opportunity to press his suit, and while the bride was sure she was wedded to her art, Danny Cupid, sailed in at the psychological moment, succeeded in convincing Miss Danforth that she would better wed Mr. Brown.

The Rev. Donald Gerrish, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, will marry the couple. The bride lives with her mother, Mrs. Wilhelmina Danforth at No. 177 Williams avenue, Lynn.

BRITISH GUESTS OF THE D. A. R.

The British delegates who are stopping over in this city until Tuesday on their way to England from the World's Sunday School Convention in Washington, spent the greater part of to-day visiting points in and about Boston. They were the guests of the Daughters of the Revolution at Faneuil Hall, where an elaborate entertainment was prepared.

A banquet is to be given this evening in Ford Hall by the Boston Local Union of Pastors and Laymen. The Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad will preside. Following the reception given by Governor Draper at the State House the entire party motored to the Summer home of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Hartshorn at Clifton where, after a lunch and an inspection of the grounds, they presented Mr. and Mrs. Hartshorn with a loving cup.

LIFE-SAVERS OUT TO SAVE 3 MEN

PROVINCETOWN, June 4.—A barge with three men aboard flew a distress signal to-day as it lay a mile and a half off the Sandwich breakwater. Word was immediately telephoned to the Wood End life saving station for the big power boat to go to the rescue of the men on the barge.

As yet nothing has been learned as to the cause of the distress signal, but it is believed the barge may be sinking, and the men are in danger of their lives.

The life saving crews were away from the station and the power boat could not be manned with the usual promptness.

It is thought the barge is one used in hauling stone to be used in the construction of the canal at Sandwich.

VASSAR GRADUATE THROWN AND KILLED

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 4.—Miss Marie Mossman, a graduate of Vassar College in the class of 1901, and daughter of the Rev. W. D. Mossman, general superintendent of the City Missionary Association, was instantly killed at Guilford by being thrown from a carriage. Miss Mossman was on her way to Madison when the horse became frightened, throwing her out, her head striking a stone and crushing the skull.

DELANEY SPURNS OFFER OF $10,000 TO HANDLE JEFF FOR COAST FIGHT

By HARRY D. CASHMAN.

NEW YORK, June 4.—When the name of Billy Delaney, veteran trainer and handler of two heavy weight champions, James J. Corbett and James J. Jeffries, was first linked with that of Jack Johnson, the whole sporting fraternity was agog. It was generally known that Delaney had some trifling difficulty with Jeffries, but few believed that the chasm was wide enough to make the trainer shift his allegiance and knowledge to the black man in an engagement of such importance. But he did. And below is his reason in a telegraphic correspondence that speaks for itself.

The usually taciturn, reticent Delaney has outdone himself for conciseness and frankness. He not only declines an offer of $10,000 for a few weeks' work, but gives for the first time the reasons of his bitterness toward Jeff. He is now willing to do all in his power to help the black man beat the white. The following lettergrams tell the story:

Delaney Spurns Offer.

NEW YORK, May 30, 1910.—Billy Delaney, Oakland, Calif. New York wants Jeffries to win. The undersigned New Yorkers will guarantee you $10,000 for handling Jeffries in his coming fight with Johnson.
William P. Rooney, Maurice Quinlan, P. J. Conway, Frank B. Rapp.

HARBIN SPRINGS, Cal., June 3, 1910.—Messrs. Rooney, Quinlan, Conway and Rapp: (New York answer 1538 Broadway) (Letter of 30th) Not for Manhattan Island. I quit for welching on a gambling debt and running out on the Squires match. Jeffries has selected a good training staff and can get along without me. From a white man's standpoint I admire the stand you take, but I could not conscientiously have any dealings with James J. Jeffries.

BILLY DELANEY.

The four signers of the original lettergram are well-known business men of standing, equally well-known to Jeffries and Delaney, and New Yorkers. Billy needed no further guarantee of the good faith of the message than the names that appeared on it.

P. J. Conway is a leader in sports, and as head of the Irish American Athletic club, has done more than his share for athletics of all sorts. Maurice Quinlan is familiar to every sporting man along Broadway. Rooney and Rapp need no introduction.

Just how these men proposed to raise the garanteed fund is their own secret. They are amply able to pay it from their own pockets or a popular subscription list for the amount could be filled in half an hour along Broadway by well-wishers of the big fellow.

Gambling Bet Story.

From the outset of Jeff's training the need of a wise head has been apparent. He has sparring partners and advisers a plenty, but not one experienced conditioner of men is among them. A Delaney or a Muldoon is considered absolutely necessary to watch Jeffries and make him fit for his coming task. Yet the big fellow is going along serene in the idea that he knows what will be best for himself. May be he does—then again, may be he doesn't.

The gambling debt that Jeff refused to pay is a matter of history to Nevada. Jeff always insisted that the $5,000 he dropped was taken from him with loaded dice. Even if that were the case, the money was loaned to him and won by others than the man who willingly advanced it.

"The running out on the Squires match," is a personal matter between Delaney and Jeffries, and brings forth an odd trait in the fighter's character. He promised Delaney to box Squires, and then changed his mind. No amount of argument could make him switch back again, nor advance any reason. For pure stubbornness Jeff has most men beat to a "fare you well."

On the strength of Jeff's promise (which was never denied) Delaney gave his word for the bout. Through no fault of his own, the trainer was forced to break faith.

That he has neither forgiven nor forgotten is best evidenced by his refusal to have anything further to do with the "Reliance of the white race," in the coming battle of the century.

JEFF HARD HIT BY GOVERNOR'S CHARGE OF FIGHT FRAME-UP

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—According to private advices from Rowardennan, Jim Jeffries went mighty near to breaking camp and returning to the solitude of alfalfa meadows when he heard what Governor Gillette is alleged to have said about the fight on the Fourth.

When the news reached the quarters Jim had just finished luncheon, and it had been remarked that he was never in better spirits or more chatty than he was during the meal.

Then they sprung the fake interview on him and he immediately became low spirited and listless. As a returned tourist remarked this morning "The big fellow was as logy as vessel in the doldrums."

It was some time before Jeff could find his tongue and even then he did not have a great deal to say. Before he got through however, he expressed a willingness to turn all his interest in the financial end of the venture over to charity if it could be shown that he had any knowledge of or was in any way a party to a crooked deal.

When news of the Governor's denial of the story was sent to Jeffries he brightened to a certain extent. He said he felt all along that the Governor could not have said the things attributed to him. Jeff believes that some one who is bent on "knocking" the match fabricated the interview. A friend of Jeff who has just returned from Rowardennan says.

"Jeff feels he is in this business again in compliance with a popular demand and that is why unjust criticisms hit harder than they would if he had taken up the game of boxing of his own accord.

"He hates to be referred to as 'The hope of the white race,' but he maintains just the same that it was a general claim for a Jeffries-Johnson which made him get out of his quiet life. It is decidedly unfair to make him take up the cudgels again and then raise suspicion as to the fairness of the fight he is to engage in."

Not Influenced by Gold.

Johnson's pet argument, of course, is in line with that of the Irishman who having wrestled an opponent to the floor after much struggling, cannot be made to see the advisibility of letting him up again.

Jack argues that the difficulties which beset Peary in his quest of the pole, or the obstacles encountered by Amundsen in forcing the Northwest passage, were not to be compared to the rocky road the Johnson person had to travel to reach the championship. Having attained the goal of his ambition, Jack says that he can only be made to retire by force of fists and not by the lure of gold.

Down at Rowardennan quite a number of newly arrived guests are waiting patiently for Jim Corbett and Jeffries to begin their sparring bouts. Corbett is in no hurry, however. He says he wants to be at his best when he dons the gloves with the big fellow, and to do this end he is undergoing a mild form of training.

The two Jims will begin their cuffing matches in a few days, and if all promises are kept, there will be some exciting half hours in the open air ring beneath the Redwoods.

Before and After the Game

By DYKE CLARK.

It did look for a while as if the Cubs would fall down on that thirteenth straight win out of fourteen games, but they never worked harder to get past the hoodoo number, and fell on Cliff Curtis when everything appeared like clear sailing, as the Cubs had only drawn one tally up to the seventh, when the explosion came. Curtis was pitching a nice game, and his fielders were backing him to perfection when the seventh came and Cliff lost his eyesight for the plate, passing two after a two-base rap. He should have been relieved, but there was no one warmed up, and he went through the inning, and the game was salted away right there by the Cubs. Cole, the Cub youngster, looked easy when the Doves got the bases filled in the opening inning, but he extricated himself after that and never had to worry much.

In spite of the one-sided defeat, there were some few redeeming features that livened up the sport. Bill Sweeney took the top prize when he picked Schulte's drive over his head out of the air with his ungloved hand. It was a piping hot ball, but Bill spilled it so easy. It was one of those plays that happens only once a season.

Just how valuable a player like Johnny Evers is to a team was apparent in the sixth round, when he retired the side. He took Miller's line drive without wincing, though it burned his hooks. Then he ran far into right field and spoiled a good-looking safe one by Beck. If Johnny could only learn to curb his tongue he would be rated with the gentlemanly players, but the fans all like him because he puts ginger in the game, and that's what they want.

"We expect to return home in the lead," was Chance's comment as soon as the team got off the train. "No team in the league has been playing good ball so far this Spring, but we are just getting into our stride. With decent weather our veterans will soon thaw out, and I don't see how they are going to catch up with us. Of course, New York is pretty good just now and Pittsburg seems to have secured its second wind, but we have gradually improved, too. Our pitchers are getting into shape and with the catcher going right we will be there.

"I myself will be out of the game for a little while on account of a split finger, but that won't hurt the team any. Luderus is putting up a cracking good game at first, so there should be nothing lost on that score. Despite the fact that Evers has been out for some time, the team has been going along at a great clip, which shows that we are getting into form. Thirteen in a row isn't so bad."

John Montgomery Ward, former star pitcher and second baseman, and who last Winter was considered the safest bet in the race for presidency of the National League, believes that Detroit will win a fourth pennant, but not without a hard fight. Ward is of the opinion that the Red Sox and the Athletics are the two clubs Detroit must beat to land the flag.

He thinks Detroit has passed through the worst slump of the season and that the Athletics still have a big slump to face. Detroit, in Ward's opinion, will keep climbing from now on and win the majority of games.

Pittsburg and Chicago are picked to fight it out in the National League.

Neal Ball, known as "The Triple Play Kid," was bought from New York by Cleveland. The Nap owners paid $5,000 for Neal. He is now sitting on the bench. He played in ten games for Cleveland this year and made one hit, a single, during one of the rallies Cleveland made in Detroit. His batting average is .040.

Charlie Street, the energetic catcher of the Washington club, has caught 1,115 games, and suffered but two fractures. But fractured bones are not always the fault of awkward owners, according to Street. A crossed signal or a wild pitch can result in broken fingers. So all the more credit to him who can catch 1,115 games and suffer only two fractures.

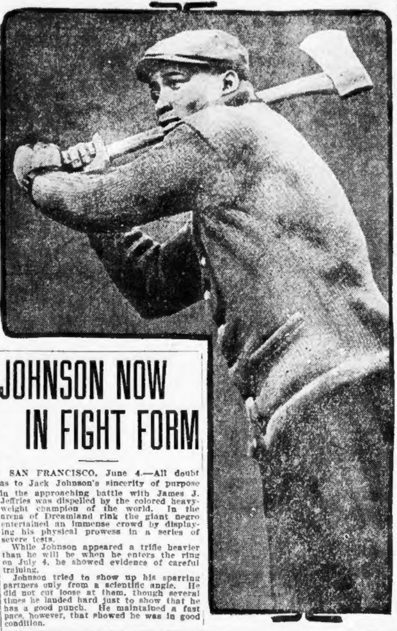
Jack's There With Axe



JOHNSON NOW IN FIGHT FORM

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—All doubt as to Jack Johnson's sincerity of purpose in the approaching battle with James J. Jeffries was dispelled by the colored heavyweight champion of the world. In the arena of Dreamland rink the giant negro entertained an immense crowd by displaying his physical prowess in a series of severe tests.

While Johnson appeared a trifle heavier than he will be when he enters the ring on July 4, he showed evidence of careful training.

Johnson tried to show up his sparring partners only from a scientific angle. He did not cut loose at them, though several times he landed hard just to show that he has a good punch. He maintained a fast pace, however, that showed he was in good condition.

Looking for victory, though watching for any tricks that Exeter may have up her sleeve, Andover will face her rival's nine this afternoon on her own diamond. Andover has made it a rule since 1906 to win two out of three, if not all of the contests each year between the two schools. The recent defeat on the track has made her thirsty for her opponent's blood, and a failure would mean keen disappointment to the supporters of the blue.

Andover's strength lies chiefly in her batting. Reilly at third base is the heaviest hitter on the team, and is looked upon to make the fur fly.

Andover's infield has at times shown remarkable speed, but again has often had spells of wildness and lack of team work. Coach Clough, a former Andover and Princeton star, has been putting them through some hard drilling, to eliminate any reproduction of this. Dougherty has been unable to connect with the ball when at bat. Beedy and Boles cover second and short, the latter being effective also with the willow.

Both schools lack good pitchers. Gene Brown, Andover's former star twirler, has left school, and Carl and Ripley have been fighting for his place. Carl has the better of it, so far, as Ripley has been out of the game for some time on account of illness. Carl's curves have proved puzzling to many a batter, but he lacks speed. Ripley only got back into the game Thursday, but may pitch part of the game. His control is decidedly better than Carl's. Litchfield and Walsh are Exeter's pitchers. Litchfield has been showing up strongly of late, and will start the game.

It is hard to predict the winner from any past showing. The nines are very closely matched, and will furnish a clean and close game, not free from a spectacular element.

Undismayed by the slaughter of yesterday, the Doves again tackle the Cubs on the local grounds to-day, determined to win this afternoon's struggle, and at least partially wipe out the defeats which have been chalked against them since the Chicago bunch struck town.

The fans to-day ought to see a struggle worth going a long ways to witness. In other words, there ought to be some ball.

The Cubs, to a man, on the other hand, are out to make it fourteen straight out of fifteen games. They think that the Doves are easy, and as a result are aiming to take all of the games in the present series.

Parsons, the new twirler, will be in the box for the Doves. He wants to be the gent to stop that winning gait of the Cubs. If he is in good form, and has proper support, local fans are betting that the Chicago players will not walk away with to-day's game as easily as they did with that 9 to 0 game yesterday.

Brown or Pfeister will be on the mound for the Cubs. Both are in good condition.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—The weather was not quite so frigid to-day, and there was every indication that the Browns and the Red Sox would have a merry battle in their second engagement here, with a big crowd out to make things lively.

The layoff yesterday put the two teams of ball tossers in fine shape to go the fast route to-day for the end of the week game, and as there was only one more contest to play to finish the series the clubs were out to get what they could before the final curtain went down.

The fans have not yet stopped talking about that wonderful catch made by Tris Speaker the other day, and he is the hero of the hour with the fans here and as big a favorite as Ty Cobb ever was.

Manager Donovan said he might spring his young pitcher, Barberich, on the Browns to-day and give him a chance to see what he can do in a big chase. Pelty or Gilligan, one of O'Connor's new recruits, were down on the bills to perform.

HARVARD NINE MEET CORNELL

Harvard meets Cornell on the diamond on Soldiers Field this afternoon. The Crimson nine is confident of defeating the Ithacans.

McLaughlin of the Harvard varsity will have a chance to test out his twirling powers against a big college nine this afternoon. He will start the game against Cornell and if he fails to show anything, Hicks will take his place.

McLaughlin held the Brown aggregation down to four hits and he seems to have considerable promise. The contest with Cornell this afternoon will show whether he belongs permanently in big college company in the pitching line.

He has a fast rise and a puzzling drop and has nearly as much speed as Hicks. In the Brown game he showed perfect control and varied his balls in a manner that fooled the Providence collegiates.

Hicks is scheduled to take the first sack, the station he held in the Brown game. This was the place Hicks occasionally took when he was star on the Arlington High team and he is perfectly at home on the initial cushion.

There is gladness in the hearts of the Crimson fans over the announcement that Potter will be back in his place at second to-day. Potter is without doubt the life of the Crimson team and can be relied upon nearly every time to tickle the leather.

TITER'S COLTS SET CLIP FOR OTHER HORSES

Henry Titer is setting the clip for the other Readville trainers in the matter of stepping the two and three-year-old trotters in his stable along. He holds the season's track record for both ages, having driven George Leonard's three-year-old colt, Krill, by Kavalli, 2.07¾, dam Elision, by Arion, 2:07¾, a mile in 2:21, and been miles in 2:28½, with two of the two-year-olds in his string.

The first of these to do the trick was a black filly, by Todd, 2:15¾, owned by his foreman, Guy James, and the second, a bay colt by Bingen, 2:06¾, out of a mare by Arion that is owned by Dr. Blodgett of Lincoln. All three of the youngsters stepped their miles with speed to spare, and look like real stake prospects.

Outside of Titer's two-year-olds the fastest mile at the track this season is one in 2:32, by D. W. Caton's bay colt, Cochato Boy, by Cochato, 2:11½, dam by Clay King.

John Young has several two-year-olds in his Allen Farm string that can step well, though he has not asked any of them to beat 2.35 as yet. Young has been miles close to that notch with two of the three-year-olds in his stable.

STRAIGHT TIPS

FOR SPORT FANS

STANLEY KETCHEL HAS ABOUT adopted "Little Toby," the hunchback newsboy, since Toby became his mascot. "Steve hasn't lost a fight since I've been with him," Toby says. The night Ketchel shaded Sam Langford at Philadelphia Toby warmed up the "thunderbolt's" corner. He came over here and repeated the trick when Ketchel trimmed Porky Flynn, and he was there the night Ketchel put Willie Lewis to sleep. "I'll never box again without the kid along," Ketchel says. "He goes where I go." Which gives "Little Toby" a trip to California. By the way, Ketchel is in fine trim again. He weighs 155½, all of it "the goods." That rustle with Sam Langford opened his eyes.

JACK McKEON, WHOM "BIG" TIM Sullivan, stakeholder of the big fight, sent West to watch proceedings, has been keeping "Big Tim" posted on both rumors and facts in 'Frisco. McKeon has sent back confidential word that Jeffries is in "the best possible condition," and that he (McKeon) never had thought it possible for him to get into such fine trim. Johnson, he says, is still a bit slow, but is getting rid of his excess weight and in a week ought to be doing fast work. Doesn't look like they were getting ready for a "frame-up."

IT IS WISE TO SUSPEND JUDGMENT on the reported statement of Governor Gillett of California that the Jeffries-Johnson fight has been "framed up." It's possible the Governor didn't say it, at all. When he was East his opinions were not that way.

THE DOVES MIGHT LOOK LIKE bush leaguers if you totaled up their string of defeats at the hands of the Cubs. But, remember this. The Cubs won eight straight before they met the Doves, their victories at the South End grounds have been fairly close, the Doves walloped the Pirates, and there isn't, by any means, a hopeless margin between first and last team percentages in the National League this year. We are not banking on the Doves getting that near the "rag," of course, but give them some encouragement. And don't forget that it will take a mightier aggregation than there is in sight to trim the Cubs the way they are playing to-day. I'm going to keep on plugging for the Doves for quite a while yet. They're playing scrappy baseball at South End grounds these days worth going to see.

"Straight Tips":
Dear Sir—Can you give me the address of "Al" Buckenberger, who managed the Doves a few years since? And oblige
J. D. CHASE.

YOU BET. "AL" IS RUNNING A bowling alley in Syracuse, N. Y., and is one of the leading citizens of that burg. His establishment is one of the most luxurious in the country—cost about $40,000, I understand, and is getting the business. "Al" is making good, I'm glad to hear.

There are letters in this office for Eugene O'Connor, Jr., Peter S. McNally, Jack Twin Sullivan and "Kid" Bisson.

Straight Tips—Would you kindly answer the following question: In a game of forty-fives, clubs were trumps. One man led the king of clubs, the next man played the five of clubs and the next man had the jack of clubs, but said he did not have to play it. I claimed he did have to play it. The jack was the only trump he had. Thanking you in advance,
READER.

He was required to play his jack.

Straight Tips—To decide an argument and bet, please state in your dope column if Porky Flynn that fought Ketchel is the same who got the decision over Sam Langford? Yours,
A. SOMNILOQUIST.
Webster, Mass.

No. It was Fireman Jim Flynn whom the newspapers gave a shade over the Tar Baby.

Straight Tips—Please publish in your column how long the Johnson-Ferguson fight in Chelsea was. Also where the fight occurred between Honey Mellody and Billy Gardner, and in what round Mellody knocked out Gardner. If you will decide these two disputes, you will greatly oblige
THOMAS McWILLIAN.
North Station, Boston.

They fought twice in Chelsea. Johnson won the first fight in ten rounds and the second by a foul in the seventh. Mellody knocked out Bill Gardner in eleven rounds at one of the Boston clubs.

Straight Tips—In your column, kindly state who in your estimation is the classier boxer of the two, Jimmy Walsh or Pal Moore. I realize that Walsh was there, but that is only a single instance. Also how many times has Pal Moore been whipped since the first of the year? An answer in your column will be greatly appreciated by
T. C. F.
Milford, Mass.

Walsh proved to me that he is the classiest boxer of the two last Tuesday evening. Moore has not been defeated. He has defeated some of the best men around his weight but a few have been lucky to get draws with him. Walsh fought a fast draw with him in New York recently.

Harvard Athletic News

By W. E. BURTON

Coach Pieper seems to be undecided whether to keep Minot or Kelley permanently in the outfield. Neither have shown much promise in the hitting line. Minot has been given the preference lately, but has not yet indicated that he will receive first honors in the garden. De Windt of the second team is still looking for a place in the varsity outfield. He failed to make the varsity at the time his teammate, Rogers, was taken on.

"Pebo" Gardner, Harvard's crack runner, who has come out to make a place in the Crimson varsity outfield, is buckling down in real style to make good. Gardner is a clever fielder, but he is as yet weak in the hitting department. Coach Pieper is giving him plenty of practice with the stick, and it looks as if Minot or Kelley would have to look to their laurels in the garden plots.

Gardner is one of the best all-round athletes that ever came to Harvard. Up to a short time ago he was captain of the Harvard tennis team, and is said to be one of the most clever wielders of the racket in the Crimson University. Gardner also played forward on the Harvard hockey team last Winter. Gardner also won his class numerals in baseball last year. In his freshman year Gardner was second string first baseman. In the game with the Yale yearlings Gardner was up only once and made one clean single, scoring a tally.

Foster and Jaques are the chief competitors this year for track captain. Jaques seems to have the larger following. The election will be held next week.

Potter seems likely to achieve the record, not only of being the most frequent hitter on the Crimson nine, but the longest hitter. Probably no other player on the Harvard team has the swatting force that Potter has. Yesterday in a game between the varsity and the freshmen on the varsity diamond Potter lifted the sphere into the middle of the freshman grounds.

The first qualification for the position of manager of the Harvard varsity crew is the ability to swim, rather a queer requirement but nevertheless extremely important. When the Harvard crews are at Red Top the manager begins to use his talents in this line. There is a tradition that every crew manager has wanted to take down a dark alley and strangle, to the effect that every manager who ventures to Red Top must come in for an involuntary bath. The ducking comes regular every year and everyone seems to enjoy it —except the manager.

RUBE WADDELL MAY JOIN RED SOX, IS RUMOR

According to a rumor, which gained circulation in St. Louis, and which reached here to-day, Rube Waddell may join the Red Sox. It is intimated that there is a deal on for the Americans to get the eccentric pitcher.

Manager Donovan, it is said, would like to get one of the Browns's pitchers, and favors one of the southpaws.

Manager O'Connor of St. Louis needs two outfielders and would be willing, it is said, to part with Rube or Bailey if the desired players could be obtained in exchange.

The Red Sox were unable to tackle the Browns yesterday, but a single game is scheduled for this afternoon, Barberich or Joe Wood will be in the box for the Speed Boys and Jack Powell will do the twirling for St. Louis.

LETTERS AWARDED TUFTS ATHLETES

The advisory board of Tufts Athletic Association has announced the award of letters to the following athletes.

Baseball—Allen D. Hooper and Richard Knight of Tufts College; Eward Martin, Harry Martin, Edward Qualters and Joseph Roberts of Boston; Charles E. Dustin of Dexter, Me.; Roy W. Dickinson of Wiscasset, Me.; Richard B. Larkin of Medford; George L. Hall of Somerville; William J. McKinnon of Winthrop; Byron T. Atwood of Salem.

MIGHTY POLE WINS IN STRAIGHT FALLS

Stanislaus Zbyszko won in two straight falls over Ali Mahmout, the ponderous Turk, at Mechanics Hall. Zbyszko was cheered to the echo by a gathering of 2,000, 90 per cent of which were his countrymen. The Pole won the first fall in 14 minutes 40 seconds by a half Nelson, and after a brief rest turned the second trick in 8 minutes 40 seconds by what is known as a flying mare.

In the preliminaries Frank West defeated Joe Iarardi in 15 minutes 45 seconds, and John Perelli and Cyclone Burns wrestled for thirty minutes, neither man being able to secure a fall.

GOLF GOSSIP CLUB NOTES

Miss I. B. Hyde of the South Shore, who has made such a remarkable showing in this year's Metropolitan Women's Golf championship, is spoken of in many of the press reports as a new golfer, having never been heard of before. The fact is, Miss Hyde has been playing golf for several years, but has never taken part in open competitions, therefore she was unheard of. Her first championship tourney was at Palm Beach last Winter, where she was the runner-up to Mrs. E. H. Fitler in the Florida State Championship for women. She holds the course record at Palm Beach, as well as at her own club, and is one of the best women golfers in this country to-day.

Miss Hyde has been credited with drives over 200 yards in length the past week at Montclair, and these drives are the real thing, for the New York Sun published the following paragraph on February 26, this year, based on an authority that saw the match: "Miss Hyde from the tee was a revelation to the large gallery who followed the Palm Beach women's finals, for she repeatedly drove over 200 yards, and one drive was measured at 250 yards.

Open mixed foursome tourneys seem to be more in evidence this year than ever before, with Allston, Belmont Springs, Commonwealth and Oakley the past week, and Chestnut Hill and Brae Burn on the 22d and 25th of June to look forward to.

Several Boston women have already left for New York and Philadelphia in anticipation of the coming Eastern Women's championship and the Griscom Cup team matches.

Don't forget the second day of the open amateur tourney at the Allston Golf Club to-day. Handsome trophies are awaiting the players making the best gross and net scores.

MATCH SANDY TO FIGHT JIM BARRY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 4.—Promoter Tom McCarey to-day got the signatures of Sandy Ferguson of Boston and Jim Barry of Chicago affixed to articles for a ten-round bout, to be pulled off at the Naud Junction Pavilion June 14.

Barry is in good condition and ready for the match. Ferguson injured the thumb on his right hand in his fight with Burns last week, but says it will be all right in a few days.

JOHNNY DOHAM WINS FAST 15-ROUND BOUT

BALTIMORE, June 4.—Johnny Doham was given the decision over Harry Stone, after fifteen rounds of hard going before the National A. C., and he well earned the verdict. He was the aggressor from start to finish.

Stone put up a game battle, though he was outweighed by ten pounds. Stone proved himself the cleverer, but Doham was too strong for him, and it was this that saved him. Both men were fresh at the finish.

The Autobiography of Mrs. Henpeck

By DOROTHY DIX

CHAPTER III.

How to Get Rid of Your Husband's Relatives and Friends.

IN matrimony, no matter whom you marry, there is always something wrong, some speck in the amber, some fly in the ointment, some cloud on the horizon. In my case it was John's family and friends.

He was one of those men adored by every one who knows them. He had hosts of old college chums and business associates that hung upon his neck, so to speak, and were apparently never happy unless they could have him with them. Worse still, he had the fatal reputation of being a good son and brother. He was always giving his mother and sisters presents and devising nice little treats for them, and they simply prostrated themselves before him, and worshipped at his feet.

I confess that during our engagement all of this troubled not a little, or at least it would have troubled me if I had felt that I was adequate to the situation, and was equal to the task of separating him from his past with the neatness and dispatch of a Reno divorce lawyer.

Still, looking back upon it, I realize that it was not as easy as it seemed; for John developed unsuspected qualities of stubbornness and mulishness, when it came to the question of giving up his old associates, and clung to them in a perfectly ridiculous manner, though he couldn't help but see that the people in MY set are twice as stylish and smart as his were.

Looked Like a Hopeless Task

As for his mother and sisters—well, I thought I'd never make any break there, and I don't believe I should, except that they played into my hand. They were so foolishly fond of him that when they saw that I didn't want them in the house, and that it made John perfectly miserable to see that I didn't want them, why, the silly creatures just stayed away of themselves, to save his feelings.

Of course when I married I didn't have the slightest intention of sharing my husband or his pocketbook, with anybody else. I was determined to monopolize him, body and soul, and purse. But poor John! In his simple, unsophisticated way, had no idea of this. He thought that he was going to keep all of the old things, and the old people, and just add a home of his own and a wife to them, like a frosting on a cake, you know.

We had hardly gotten settled in our new house before I found out that he had extended a blanket invitation to all of his old friends; and they came trooping in to see us.

And such a lot as they were! There was a fat old boarding house keeper in whose house he had lived when he first came to the city to seek his fortune, and who seemed to think she had a right to call him "John," because she had let his board run for weeks without pay when he once got out of a job and didn't have any money.

There Was a "Stingy Old Maid"

There was a stingy old maid, with whom he had grown up in the country and who was a stenographer in a downtown office. There was a big, handsome woman that he called "Mater," and whom he said that he knew I would love because she had put out her hand to him once in some crisis of his life, and kept him steady. There were half a dozen young women that he had played golf with, and there were scores of men who would come and sit and smoke, and talk, and talk, and talk about old college days, and camping expeditions, and business deals; and every one of these people seemed to feel that they had a real claim on John, and that he belonged to them just because they happened to love him.

Naturally, I didn't intend to stand for that sort of thing. I wasn't going to have John continue to live in a past in which I had no part. Besides, whatever entertaining was done in that house I was resolved should be for MY friends.

The problem was how to get rid of John's friends. I began by ridiculing them. I called his attention to all the little peculiarities and eccentricities that he had never noticed, and made him see how one woman was a frump, and another's grammar was rickety, and another was loud in voice and manners.

I could see him wince, although he stoutly defended them, and then I casually remarked that I hoped to heaven that they never would meet any of MY friends, because I should be mortified to death if they did.

I also told him frankly that I thought his men friends had a very bad influence over him, and that I wasn't going to have him sitting up half the night drinking and smoking and playing poker with his disreputable boon companions of other days.

And when he got angry, and said that these men had been like brothers to him, and had stood by him in all sorts of troubles, and that there was no use in trying to torture a glass or two of beer and a penny ante game of cards into an orgy, why I simply said that I hadn't been raised that way, and I wasn't going to have my house turned into a saloon and a gambling place.

Adopted Farthest North Attitude

I must admit, however, that I don't believe that John ever would have given in himself, or that I should have gotten rid of his friends if I hadn't frozen them out. I simply adopted a Farthest North attitude toward them whenever they showed up, and one of our dinners would have made a Polar Expedition seem like a trip to the Tropics. No friendship has the constitution to stand this, and it wasn't long before all of John's friends had pressing engagements that they couldn't possibly break whenever he invited them to his home.

This plan worked equally successfully on Jack's mother and sisters. I let them see from the very first that they couldn't settle down on me, and whenever they came I went about with the expression of an early Christian martyr bearing persecution and affliction with heroic fortitude. In vain Jack would try to cheer up. I never let the domestic atmosphere get warmer than just above the freezing point, and he was so uncomfortable and miserable that, as I said, to save him they finally quit coming at all.

Really, I don't believe that either John's mother or sisters have been in our house for five years, and while he still goes to see his mother once or twice a year I have every hope of breaking up that, because every time he goes I put him through a month of sulks before and after, and talk about being neglected and a man's first duty being to his wife, and make things so uncomfortable that instead of looking forward to his visits with pleasure he has come to regard them as ordeals.

Oh, there are plenty of ways of doing things, and any woman who reads these lines can separate her husband from his family and friends if she is determined to do it.

Julia Ward Howe Says:

I do not think it lessens a girl's chance to marry if she goes to college.

TO-DAY'S BEST STORY

There were introductions all around. The big man stared in a puzzled way at the club guest. "You look like a man I've seen somewhere, Mr. Blinker," he said. "Your face seems familiar. I fancy you have a double. And a funny thing about it is that I remember I formed a strong prejudice against the man who looks like you—although I'm quite sure we never met."

The little guest softly laughed. "I'm the man," he answered, "and I know why you formed the prejudice. I passed the contribution plate for two years in the church you attended."

"And the little kid sells the balloons for heart-coin. When you get your balloon, Lady Fair, don't fall asleep, for some sassy little person will give it a slap and send it into the air."

THE pretty Ladies—they are always kids! They pout when you most expect a high good temper; they skip and sing when you have a thunderstorm and a smart shower all figured out to be due; they have a frank and sober curiosity; they have spells of wild, overwhelming affection, and spells of utter forgetfulness; they like doll babies, and candy, and bright colors, and fairy stories; they simply adore to put out a defiant forefinger and hold it hard against the thing they are forbidden to touch; they like little boys, and mud pies; they are pretty—and they like toys.

Down at the corner of a street in Lady-Burg, where the green country begins, swaggers a little kid with a soft, Southern, swarthy face; his hair is the color of chocolate, and his eyes are, too. All day long he paces around with his fist full of strings, and on the end of 'em a great bouquet of balloons, red and blue and yellow and green. And he sells 'em to those who have little golden pennies of heart-coin.

Some balloons are very cheap. And some are bum ones, and they burst before you get 'em home—and some are very enduring and they last a lifetime.

All day long the pretty ladies mob the balloon man—through Summer fires and Winter bitterness.

If you are a Lady and a kid yet, and you like toys, and 'specially balloons, and are fond of blowing them up with blarney, till they can't get their hats on, just don't fail asleep—that's all. For some sassy little person next you will give your balloon a slap and send it into thin air. Eternal vigilance is the price of a whole, nice, red balloon.

How a Business Failure Wins Success Through Love and Stick-to-itiveness

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALMENTS.

NATHANIEL DUNCAN, the pampered son of a rich father, is thrown on his own resources when a financial crash wipes out the family fortune and causes his father's death. He tries one job after another, only to fail, and finally becomes an outcast on the park benches, where he is discovered by his old college chum, Harry Kellogg, who had not seen him for years.

Kellogg remembers how the once rich youth aided him financially and otherwise when he was working his way through college, and, in gratitude, takes him to the richly furnished bachelor apartments he has established near Fifth avenue.

Kellogg has become quite a man in the Wall street district and, after rehabilitating his old friend, introduces him among his connections and secures him a good position. But the life of ease he had led for years proves too deadly a handicap, and, although he tries, Duncan loses one good place after another.

In desperation he decides to be a burden on his friend no longer, and tells Kellogg that he is going to pack up and leave, and, if need be, go back to the life from which he had been rescued.

Then, in a moment of inspiration, Kellogg, who, meanwhile has been taken into the big Wall street firm of L. J. Bartlett & Co., proposes a plan by which Duncan "can be worth a million inside of a year."

Duncan, who is in the depths of despair, is amazed and imagines his friend has suddenly gone mad. But Kellogg never was more serious. He proposes that Duncan shall become nothing less than a fortune hunter, an heiress seeker, and he offers to fit him out with a wardrobe and stake him to $500.

Duncan is to seek an inland town, far removed from the influence of large cities, where the marriageable females outnumber the males 4 to 1, and where the daughters of rich men are pining for good looking, cultured suitors.

"You must swear off smoking, drinking, all forms of profanity, slang; and, in addition, you must go to church and get some sort of employment in the leading department store of the town," explains Kellogg. "Your exemplary habits will attract the parents, and all the eligible girls in town will come flocking to you. All you have to do is to hang back and pick out the one with the biggest bundle."

Duncan, reluctant at first, finally agreed and "the future Mrs. Duncan" is there and then toasted over a glass of wine. He is then fitted out and leaves for the scene of conquest.

* * * * * *

Homer Littlejohn, editor of the Radville Citizen, a small interior town of Pennsylvania; the historian of the community who has been abroad "and seen New York" and is therefore looked up to with respect by the townspepople, takes up a wager made by Will Bigelow, proprietor of the Bigelow House, that "nothing ever does happen, can happen or will happen" in Radville.

Will bets "the best five-cent clear Havana cigar that the Bigelow House carries." The following day, June 21, is chosen as a test. Homer Littlejohn sets it all down in his diary, and, as events proved, Will Bigelow was to be sadly humbled.

TO begin with, we were early startled by the rumor that Hiram Nutt, heretofore deemed unconquerable, had been disastrously defeated at checkers in Willoughby's grocery—and that by Watty the tailor, of all men in Radville. The rumor was confirmed by 11 in the forenoon, and in itself should have provided us with a nine days' wonder.

As it happened, an event happening almost simultaneously confused our minds. At 11:15 Miss Carpenter's household was thrown into consternation by the scandalous behavior of her black cat, Caesar, who chose suddenly to terminate a long and outwardly respectable career as Miss Carpenter's familiar by having kittens under the horsehair sofa in the parlor.

By the noon train Roland Burnette received his new Summer suit from Chicago. I did not see it till evening, but heard of it before I, since Roland donned it immediately and wore it to the bank that very afternoon.

I understand it caused something very near a run on the bank; people came in to draw a dollar or so or get change and lingered to feast their outraged visions, so that Binky Lockwood, the president, had to send Roland home to change before closing time. He sneaked back, however, as soon as off duty and spent the rest of the afternoon and evening hours in Southern & Lee's, at the soda fountain, which Southern & Lee did not object to, since it drew trade.

Pete Willing established a record by getting drunk at Schwartz's bar by 3 in the afternoon, his best previous time being 4:30, and Mrs. Willing chased him up Centre street until, at the corner of Main, he blundered into the arms of Judge Scott, who ordered him to arrest and lock himself up, which Pete, being the sheriff, solemnly did, saying that it was preferable to a return to home and wife.

At 5 o'clock there was a dog fight in front of Graham's drug store.

At 5:45 the evening train lurched in, bearing The Mysterious Stranger.

Tracey Tanner saw him first, having driven down to the station with his father's surrey on the offchance of picking up a quarter or so from some drummer wishing to be conveyed to the Bigelow House.

Only outlanders pay money for hacks in Radville; everybody else walks, of course. Naturally Tracey took The Mysterious Stranger for a drummer; he had three trunks and a heavy packing box, so Tracey's misapprehension was pardonable. Instinctively he drove him to the Bigelow House; Will now and again makes Tracey a present of a bottle of sarsaparilla or lemon-pop, with the result that Tracey calls Tunnehill, who runs the opposition hotel, a skin-flint and never takes strangers there except on their express desire.

The Mysterious Stranger.

The Mysterious Stranger merely asked to be driven to the best hotel. This is not like most commercial travellers, who as a rule know where they want to go, even in a strange town, having made inquiry in advance from their brothers of the road.

Tracey made a note of this, and is further on record as having observed that this stranger was rather better dressed than the run of drummers, if not so nobbily. Moreover, he was reticent under the crossfire of Tracey's irrepressible conversation, and failed to ask the name of the first pretty girl they passed, who happened to be Angie Tuttill.

Finally, The Mysterious Stranger actually tipped Tracey a whole quarter for carrying his suit case into the hotel office.

With these incitements it would have been unreasonable to expect Tracey to do otherwise than linger around for the good health of his sense of inquisitiveness, which would else have been severely sprained.

Will Bigelow was dozing behind the desk, lulled by the sound of Hi Nutt's voice in the barroom as he explained to all and sundry just how he had inadvertently permitted Watty, the tailor, to best him at checkers that morning. Otherwise, the office was deserted.

Tracey wakened Will by stamping heavily across the floor, and Will mechanically pushed down his spectacles and dipped a pen in ink, slewing the register round for the guest's signature. He says he knew at a glance that The Mysterious Stranger was no travelling man, but this is a mooted point, Tracey's memory being minutely accurate and at variance with Will's assertion.

The Stranger's Odd Ways

The Mysterious Stranger was a young man, rather severely clothed in a dark suit which excited no interest in Bigelow's understanding, although I, when I saw him later, had no difficulty in realizing that it had never been made by a tailor whose place of business was more than five doors removed from Fifth avenue.

He was tallish, but not really tall, and carried himself with a slight stoop which took away from his real height. Tracey says he had a way of looking at you as if he was smiling inside at some joke he'd heard a long time ago; and I don't know but that's a fairly apt description of his ordinary expression.

He had a way, too, of nodding jerkily at you—just once—to show he recognized you or understood what you were driving at; at other times he carried his head a trifle to one side and slightly forward. He was a man you wouldn't forget, somehow, though what there was about him that was remarkable nobody seemed to know.

He nodded that jerky way in answer to Will Bigelow's "G'devenin," and without saying anything took the pen and started to register. He had to stop, however, for Tracey was pressing him so close upon the right that he couldn't get any play for his elbow, and after a minute or two he asked Tracey politely would he mind stepping round to the left, where he could see just as well. So Tracey did. Then he wrote his name in a good round hand: "Nathaniel Duncan, N. Y."

"I'd like a room with a bath," he told Will; "something simple and chaste, within the means of a man in moderate circumstances."

Will thought he was joking at first, but he didn't smile, so Will explained that there was a bathroom on the third floor at the end of the hall, though there wasn't much call for it. "I could give you a room next to that," he said, "but you wouldn't want it, I guess."

"Why not?" asked The Mysterious Stranger.

"Because," said Will, 'tain't near the sample-room."

"That doesn't make any difference; I'm on the wagon."

The only sense Will could get out of that was that the young man was traveling for a buggy house and hadn't brought any samples with him. "I thought," he allowed, "as how you'd be wantin' a place to display your samples, but, of course, if you're in the wagon business"——

"Oh," said Mr. Duncan, "I thought you meant the 'sample-room' over there." He nodded toward the bar. "That's what you call the dispensaries of intoxicating liquors in this part of the country, is it not?"

Will made a noise resembling an affirmative, and as soon as he got his breath explained that traveling men generally wanted a sort of a show room next to theirs and that that was called a sample room, too.

"But I'm not a traveling man," said The Mysterious Stranger. "So I shall have as little use for the one as the other."

"Then the room on the third floor'll do for you," said Will. "How long do you calculate on stayin'?"

"That will depend," said Mr. Duncan; "a day or so—perhaps longer; until I can find comfortable and more permanent quarters."

In his amazement Will jabbed the pen so hard into the potato beside the inkwell that he never could get the nib out and had to buy a new one. "You don't mean to say you're thinkin' of comin' here to live?" he gasped.

"Yes, I do," said the young man apologetically. "I don't think you'll find me in the way. I shall be very quiet and unobtrusive. I'm a student, looking for a quiet place in which to pursue my studies."

"Well," said Will, "you've found it all right. There ain't no quieter place in Pennsylvany than Radville, Mr. Duncan. I hope you'll like it," he said, sarcastic.

"I shall endeavor to," said the young man.

"And now, may I go to my room, please? I should like to renovate my travel-stained person to some extent before dinner."

"You'l have time," said Will; "dinner's at noon to-morrow. I guess you're thinkin' about supper. That's ready now. Here, Tracey, you carry this gentleman's things up to No. 43."

But Tracey had already gone, and such was his haste to spread the news that he forgot to take the horse and surrey back to the stable, but left it standing in front of the hotel till 8 o'clock, for which oversight, I am credibly informed, his father justly dealt with him before sending him to bed.

I have never been able to understand how we failed to hear of it at Miss Carpenter's before 7 o'clock.

That was the hour when, having finished supper and my first evening pipe, I started down town to the Citizen office, intending to stop in at the Bigelow House on the way and confound Will with the list of the day's happenings.

You Can Find Wisdom In Yourself

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

"WHAT should a man do who wants to become wiser than he is?"

This problem ought to interest the entire human family, since every man desires to be wiser than he is; even the sages and seers of earth are ever seeking larger wisdom and clearer sight.

The average mind can find improvement by giving an hour, or even a portion of an hour, every day to reading books of history, travel and philosophy, and thinking about them afterward.

It is small use to read without thought or reflection; indeed, it is worse than not reading at all, since it weakens the mind to crowd it with haphazard and unselected reading, just as it injures the hinges of a trunk to crowd it with piles of unfolded and unsystematized materials.

To seek the society of people who are better instructed than ourselves is another method of improvement; yet mere knowledge of literature or events is not wisdom, and he who seeks the latter must learn to look within his own soul for it.

A Help to Wisdom

A quiet quarter of an hour given daily to meditation on the words "wisdom" and "light," accompanied with deep breathing and a strong desire for greater knowledge, will help materially toward the desired acquirement of wisdom.

The first thing a human being does on entering earth life is to breathe. It is the one thing he never stops doing from birth to death. Yet few people breathe enough and few breathe properly.

Not one person in ten thousand realizes the vast importance of right breathing.

Deep breathing practiced daily, with the right concentration of mind, leads to perfect health and to the attainment of any desire of the heart.

All understanding of spiritual laws and all power over the material things of earth must begin by deep breathing.

All physical ailments taken in time can be cured by proper breathing exercises—nervousness, hysteria, despondency, indigestion and all weaknesses of the lungs and chests.

Our Own Masters

But to produce the desired results the breathing must be done daily and with persistency.

Every lung cell must be filled with fresh air, and every muscle of the body must aid in its distribution throughout the system, and the mind must make this distribution of more than physical import.

So let the man who desires wisdom above all things breathe in wisdom a few moments daily, and he will find new avenues of understanding opening to him as the days go by.

There is no unselfish and intense desire of the human heart which may not be gratified here on earth if we are patient and persistent.

All the forces of God lie in the human being.

It is only necessary to realize this fact and to live according to that realization to build for ourselves such lives and bodies and environment as we desire.

Poverty, sickness, ignorance, unhappiness are all false conditions.

Wealth, health, knowledge, happiness are yours if you care enough about them to find them.

They are in your own soul, as the precious ore is in the mountainside.

Dig and you shall find.

BRIDES STILL HOLD SOCIAL STAGE CENTRE

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Bridal affairs continue to hold the centre of the social stage, and, in fact, nothing else is being talked about in smart set circles to-day. Of course the all-important affair outside Boston is the large wedding in New York of Miss Ethel Cowdin to Charles Morgan. About a score of our fashionables have gone over for the event and several of our young people were in the bridal party. Miss Cowdin's mother was a Cheever of Boston, and a niece of Dr. David W. Cheever of Boylston street, and a cousin of Dr. David Cheever of Hereford street. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Robert Bacon, wife of the American Ambassador to France.

The wedding took place at St. George's Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Hugh Birckhead, rector of the church. Miss Gertrude Cheever, a cousin of the bride, attended as the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Emily Rosalind Fish, whose engagement to John W. Cutler of Brookline, was announced recently; Miss Margaret Dix, Miss Frances Haddon, Miss Gertrude Saeidon, Miss Emily Sloane, Miss Priscilla Toland, Miss Edith Deacon and Miss Katherine Atterbury, who is a sister of Mrs. Dudley Howe of Longwood. Gaspar Bacon, who is a son of Ambassador Robert Bacon, was the best man. The ushers included George Whitney of Marlboro street; Philip Weld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen M. Weld of Dedham; Henry Morgan, Robert Morgan, John C. Cowdin, E. C. Cowdin, Charles L. Appleton, D. P. Starr, Hamilton Haddon, and Sidney W. Fish. Mr. Bacon and Mr. Weld are classmates of the bridegroom and Mr. Whitney was graduated from Harvard the year before. Mr. Bacon will himself be a bridegroom in a few weeks, as he is to marry Miss Priscilla Toland in July. A large reception was held at the home of John C. Cowdin, the father of the bride, in Gramercy Park.

* * *

This morning Miss Alice Galvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis Galvin of Brookline, was married in St. Mary's Church, Brookline, to Joseph Samuel Willoughby of Maryland. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Galvin, as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Nondas Willoughby of Baltimore, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Ellen E. Robinack of Maryland, Miss Laura Sharp of Philadelphia, and Miss Kathleen Page of Brookline. The best man was Frederick Dimptel of Baltimore. The ushers were Thomas F. Galvin, Jr., and Desmond Wadsworth of Brookline, Joseph O'Gorman of Boston, Harry S. Roberts, Austin K. Neftel and A. Wilder Brown of New York city. Among the wedding guests were Archbishop O'Connell, ex-Governor and Mrs. Curtis Guild, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Barrows, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Burrage, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Blake, Dr Gerald Blake, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Neil, John E. Malone, Colonel James Duffy and J. Mitchell Galvin. The wedding ceremony and reception, which followed at the home of the bride's parents, were attended by about three hundred guests. After a short wedding trip in the Adirondacks, the young couple will sail for Europe. They will be at home after October 1 at Willoughby Crest, Philopolis, Md.

* * *

Miss Laura Merriam, sister of Mrs. John T. Wheelwright of Marlboro street, was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Grace Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bell of Washington, to Granville Fortesque, who is a cousin of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt. The wedding took place at Twin Oaks, near Washington. Miss Bell is a granddaughter of the late Graham Bell. The other attendants were Miss Marian Wise, niece of Senator Newlands of Nevada; Miss Grace Hinckley, Miss Mary Chew, Miss Julia Goldsborough, and Miss Jean Oliver, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Oliver.

* * *

A brilliant hospitality in Milton to-day that proved the mecca of most of the fashionables who are in town was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Brooks in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Roberts, who were married a few weeks ago. Mrs. Brooks was Miss Raconel Roberts before her marriage and Mrs. Roberts was Miss Grace Pierce, only daughter of Mrs. Edward L. Pierce.

* * *

Mrs. John G. Wright, Mrs. Alexander Wright and Miss Ellen J. Wright were hostesses for an at-home at Woodlands, the beautiful family home on Heath street, Chestnut Hill.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crocker of Commonwealth avenue are at their Summer home in Cohasset.

* * *

Mrs. E. P. Bowditch and Mrs. E. A. Codman of this city have gone to the Berkshires, where they will spend the Summer.

* * *

This is Tag Day at Newport. Miss Ethel Simmes-Nowell, who is well known here, is chairman of the committee in charge.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hills of this city, have gone to Jamestown, R. I., for the Summer.

Good Things to Eat

The retail fish markets are particularly attractive just now. Many varieties of fancy fishes are offered at attractive prices. Mackerel are more plentiful and cheaper than they have been this year. Fine large mackerel caught off Cape Cod are offered at thirty cents each. Perch are selling for twenty cents a string, butter fish at two pounds for a quarter, king fish for fifteen cents a pound, black bass at two pounds for a quarter, striped bass for thirty cents a pound, flounders for ten cents a pound, scup at two pounds for a quarter, and bluefish for eighteen cents a pound. Penobscot salmon are in and sell for thirty and thirty-five cents a pound. There are a few smelts offered, and the price is high, forty cents a pound being about the average retail price.

California cantaloupes are now coming into the market, but the price is beyond the reach of the average purse, good melons bringing about twenty-five cents each.

Green peas are more plentiful and the price has dropped off. Very good peas are offered for sixty cents a peck, and fine Jerseys sell for seventy-five cents a peck.

The butter market continues to be a puzzle to dealers as well as housekeepers. Butter is considerably higher than last year, notwithstanding the fact that the receipts at Boston are very heavy and that demand is light. Butter is being placed in the storage warehouses in enormous quantities; but, instead of breaking, the price holds firm, with occasional slight advances. The dairymen say that the cost of production is greater than ever before and that to break the price would mean that they would lose money, therefore they prefer to store and take the chance of a bigger demand later. They predict that very high prices will rule next Fall.

Pianos and Musical Instruments.

PIANO SALE

$5 Down $1 A Week

Don't get the impression that only second-hand Pianos can be had at these sales—As a matter of fact we sometimes sell the entire stock of new Pianos of some small Piano Trust dealer who, through force of circumstances, was obliged to "shut up shop," store his stock and finally let it go. We have in the course of a year hundreds of new Trust Pianos that in the "course of events" come up in the salesrooms to be sold and always at a sacrifice.

We would advise you to make up your mind to buy your Piano this week and as soon as circumstances will allow you.

Delivered free anywhere in unmarked wagons.

Sometimes to make money, sometimes to punish themselves, sometimes to gain health, men and women, for periods long or short, go WITHOUT EATING.

Always the fact is chronicled by somebody who is surprised. A human being, having spent years piling up tissue, manages to live for a few days or weeks on the accumulated power—and there IS MUCH AMAZEMENT.

When the fasting ends there is discussing, and each time somebody thinks that a brand-new idea has been unearthed.

It is not a new idea.

Fasting is as old as religion, as old as common sense, AND A GREAT DEAL OLDER.

Long before there were any men on earth to think, and fast, and pray, and reason, millions of animals were here—AND THEY KNEW ENOUGH TO STOP EATING WHEN THEIR MACHINERY GOT OUT OF ORDER.

Fasting, under proper direction, is a good thing at intervals. Almost every religion prescribes partial or absolute fasting at certain times. These fasts are wisely regulated, and there is no doubt at all that they do good to the body as well as to the soul.

The man who gives up meat for a while is much better for doing without it. While he eats no meat, he gets the uric acid out of his system. The digestive apparatus, the kidneys and other organs get a rest and a time for thorough housecleaning.

Fasting recklessly, under the direction of theorists, half-educated, is most dangerous.

Thousands of young women have fasted to get thin, and have injured themselves for life.

To do without eating for a day or two, drinking plenty of water and resting, would be beneficial once a year to nearly all human beings. That would give the system time to catch up, a time to rest.

One man has just announced that he went without eating for fifteen days, and that he found his eyesight much improved.

Of course he did. Stomach trouble and eye trouble are nearly always connected. The man who eats foolishly suffers in his whole body. And when he stops his foolish eating—even though he foolishly protracts a fast too long—he is certain to gain in other directions.

A wise man who had dogs under his care had only one remedy for their troubles.

As soon as anything was the matter he put the dog in a box by himself, with plenty of fresh water and nothing to eat for several days. The dog always came out happy, cheerful, and able to digest his food.

Human beings—women especially—are more complicated and sensitive than the lower animals. They should be most cautious about fasting. They should remember that the stomach can easily become weak and unfit for the work required.

To fast for a few days absolutely while drinking water in abundance will probably hurt nobody, save one very weak.

But to eat too little constantly, as many women do; to avoid, through vanity and fear of fat, the nourishing foods that the body needs to make blood and to nourish the nerves, is criminal and dangerous.

Eat carefully, moderately, SLOWLY.

Always rise from the table feeling that you would gladly eat more than you have eaten. Eat AT REGULAR HOURS. Go to bed occasionally without your supper, when you feel that you have no appetite.

Take a VERY light breakfast in the morning—liquids only if you have no hard manual work to do.

Observe the fasts that may be ordained by the religious faith in which you believe—Christian, Jewish or Mohammedan—and on that basis you can be healthy without any special fasting or starving.

One Serious Trouble with Englishmen

They Think Too Much About Being A GENTLEMAN, and Too Little About Being A MAN

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

Here is a "joke" from Punch, the weekly that reflects faithfully the intellect of "upper class" England.

Mrs. Montmorency-Smythe—And what were you reading when I came in, my dear? Shakespeare! Ah! What a wonderful man! And to think that he wasn't exactly what one would call a gentleman.

That is published by Punch as a joke, but it really isn't a joke, in England. Hundreds of thousands of English "ladies and gentlemen" have actually discouraged the reading of Dickens by their children, because Dickens wrote about poor people, cab drivers, rag pickers, servants and so on, instead of writing about "ladies and gentlemen and members of the nobility."

Dickens, one of the great modern minds of England, is really looked down upon by those whose education should enable them to appreciate him, because he is "common, not a GENTLEMAN, in his writings."

It is a fact that one Englishman said quite seriously of Napoleon that the latter certainly was "not a gentleman." What a pity Napoleon couldn't have lived to hear that—but it probably would have been difficult to get into his Corsican mind just what the English mind was trying to say.

The English have produced and will continue to produce wonderful men. But education in England goes largely to waste now, and the reason is shown in this joke from the pages of Punch.

Too many Englishmen devote their time and thought to being "a gentleman" and think too little about being a MAN.

They think of their collars and cuffs, how they shall stand, what they shall say, whom they shall know and not know.

They pride themselves on repressing emotion, expressing no deep feeling whatever.

It would be far better if they prided themselves upon DEVELOPING EMOTIONS AND HAVING SOME REAL FEELING TO EXPRESS.

The German men have not bothered in the least about being GENTLEMEN. They have put their brains upon the task of getting trade away from England, and eclipsing England in manufactures and the selling of manufactured products.

Any nation that bases its standard upon the outward appearance of things, forgetting that the important thing is the inside, the capacity to CREATE and to DO, will suffer. AND ENGLAND IS SUFFERING.

JULIA WARD HOWE TO AMERICAN WOMEN

Tapping the mother lode of her gold mine of experience and wisdom, Julia Ward Howe presents to the women of New England, through the Boston Sunday American, nuggets of advice and inspiration of the greatest value.

By special arrangement, the grand old woman who, many years ago, stirred the hearts of the nation with her "Battle Hymn of the Republic," has written exclusively for to-morrow's edition of the Hearst papers a remarkable article on the ideals and inspirations of American womanhood.

And the most remarkable thing about it is not the strength and virility of the writing, not its wealth of thought and fund of good counsel, not the brilliance of its epigrammatic expression, nor the beauty of its moral pointing, but the fact that it was written by a woman who was ninety-one years old a few days ago.

In the reading of this article women will be afforded pleasure and instruction; men can find in it much to appreciate.

Upon every man and every woman who is inclined to be a laggard, to mope and to join the back-number class, Mrs. Howe's article will act as a stimulant and a tonic.

It will brace them up. "Be up to date!" is her theme. She writes a prescription for the mental ills of her sex; she speaks words of hope, inspires courage and delivers a message of good cheer.

She proves, in her lively and forceful style, to be a rare example of buoyant spirits at ninety-one; an example that should be a spur and an incentive to all of us to live more in accordance with her just and happy and intelligent standards.

"There are some women who are like forgotten anchors that hold back the ship; do not be a forgotten anchor," Mrs. Howe warns her sisters. What she says about women is based on an intimate, practical and conscientious knowledge.

In describing the incredible changes in the conditions and opportunities of women in her lifetime, she forces the conclusion that there is no room or reason for "forgotten anchors" among the women of to-day.

Here is her opening paragraph:

> We must all live in the present, whatever our age may be. Let our motto be "Up to Date!" The epoch we live in now is our age, as well as that of our youth. We must not live in the outworn past, for that is to hinder Progress.

What woman of half her years—or man, for that matter—could utter sentiment more striking or sounder in its wisdom or more wholesome in its spirit? It is the true American spirit!

George Eliot once defined herself as a meliorist, as one holding beliefs midway between pessimism and optimism. She gradually "acquired a charity" that rubbed out much of her pessimistic tendencies. Julia Ward Howe was never a meliorist but, from her early womanhood, was a queen of optimists.

With much of the literary genius and intellectual sensibilities and with all of the quick sympathies of George Eliot, she had this advantage over that wonderful woman in English letters who was born the same year she was—she did not have to acquire charity, it was an inherent trait.

Pessimism never had a place in her character. There is no note of it in her writings. There is not a suggestion of it in the article she has written for the Sunday American. But there is encouragement for the girl who would make sacrifices for a college education, and there are reasons why it would not be wise or good for some girls to go to college.

The legitimate claims of home and family, how a girl may best serve her day and generation, the difference between good taste in dress and vulgar ornament are interestingly described.

She proves that it is never too late to learn and that it is not right to cease studying at middle age. "I myself did not learn Greek till I was fifty," she declares.

Her conception of the real duty and office of woman is beautifully painted. "I pray this generation of women to deserve its high post as guardian of the future," is her appeal.

Following the teachings of Mrs. Howe's special article for the Sunday American, one must endeavor to live for something higher than the love of happiness—the deserving of it.

> "I never had any other desire so strong, and so like to covetousness, as that one which I have had always, that I might be master at last of a small house and large garden, with very moderate conveniences joined to them, and there dedicate the remainder of my life only to the culture of them, and study of nature."

Little Bobbie

He Writes About His Automobile Ride

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

Pa caim home the other nite with lots of smiles, he toald Ma that he wanted her & me to go on a ottomobeel trip with him. I have met a frend of mine, Pa sed, naimed Mister Abbott, & he sed he was going to taik you & me & littel Bobbie on a ride way out to the country & back.

I hoap this is on the square, sed Ma, I hoap this isent another of those bunks like the time you toald me about the time yure friends from Boylston street sed thay was going to send thare ottomobeel up. You see, Ma sed, I have known you so long that I am gitting impashunt. How about this trip wich we are to taik?

It is a regular trip, sed Pa, & it is going to be made in a regular car. You won't have to worry, Pa sed, beekaus Mister Abbott sed that he had one (1) of the finest cars that was ever seen on Commonwealth avenue. He sed that it was so fast & unmanage-able that he nevver dared to taik a drink the saim day he drove the car. Beesides, Pa sed, he has a deer wife. Do you think that he wud taik a chanst risking the life of his wife if he dident know that his hed was quite cleer?

Well, sed Ma, that may all be as it may be, but I want to meet yure frend Mister Abbott & see his car beefoar I trust the life of our yung son in a car ran by a careless man. He isent a careless man, sed Pa. He must be, sed Ma, if he is a frend of yures. The only frends you have is careless men. First thay git careless & then thay git to be yure frends, Ma sed.

Anyhow, we all sed that we wud maik the trip in the ottomobeel owned by Mister Abbott. So the next morning Mister Abbott caim & rang our door bell. Ma went to the door. We was all reddy so we went down to the street & looked at the ottomobeel. Missus Abbott was in the car, & thare was only one (1) seat left. After we had been interduced, Missus Abbott sed, Deer me, isent it embarrassing? My husband toald me that you & yure wife was very slim. Hevings, she sed, what a liar my husband is!

Ma got kind of mad beekaus Missus Abbott had sed that she was fat, & she showed it. Ma shows it every time she gits mad. Oh, well, sed Ma, it is no disgrace to be chunky. Husband, Ma sed, thare is a cross town car waiting around the corner. Let us have a nice car ride, & let these new frends of yures taik a ride in thare joak car. We want to go quite a ways, Ma sed, & thare isent a chanct to go more than a block in that funny looking littel car. It reeminds me, Ma sed, of the wagons that we used to maik when we was kids, with spools for wheels. Come on, husband, Ma sed, this is no plaice for us.

You are making the mistaik of yure life, Pa sed. These are really fine peepul. I know thay are, sed Ma, but I doant like thare car. Thare is a lot of fine peepul in this world, Ma sed, that dosent own fine cars. Beesides, sed Ma, I am afrade that Mister Abbott is a reckless driver.

I suppose you wud like to taik his place, sed Pa. If you were driving that car, Pa sed, whare wud you drive it?

Do you mean that? sed Ma. You aren't kidding?

Certingly I am not kidding, sed Pa. Whare wud you drive it?

Well, sed Ma, if you want the truth & nothing but the truth, I wud drive it into the Charles. Come on, Bobbie, sed Ma, let us have a ride in a Brookline car.
